

82 KILLED IN JET CRASH

—ROOF BLOWN OFF AIRPORT ADDITION—

Violent Snowstorm Claims Five Lives

Violent snow squalls, near blizzards and howling winds snarled across the northern Great Plains Sunday, reaching down through Nebraska into northeastern Kansas.

This, the first heavy snowstorm of the season, caused at least five deaths, an untold number of accidents, much damage, injuries and blocked highways. At Ainsworth, the wind gusted up to 80 miles per hour. Dust blew all over the state.

At Lincoln's Municipal Airport the roof was blown off the new concourse addition to the terminal building, and a window in its north lobby was blown out, according to Rolland Harr, Airport Authority executive director.

Hangars Hit
Harr also reported damage to several new T-hangars, a Frontier Airlines DC3, the roof of the new FAA General Aviation Building, and new windows for the concourse addition.

Fire destroyed two barns, a haystack and much equipment Sunday on the Louis Sterns farm southwest of Raymond after strong winds blew a power pole onto a haystack, setting it afire.

Eighty-year-old Oscar Ellis of Rt. 1 was "knocked down by a strong gust of wind" on 13th between O and P, police said. Ellis was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The National Bank of Commerce marquee was blown down, and windows were blown out at the Cork 'n' Bottle liquor store at 13th and L and at the Goodyear store at 1918 O.

Light snow and blowing snow was reported Sunday at Omaha, Columbus, Lincoln, Norfolk, Ainsworth and Valentine, while light snow fell at Grand Island and North Platte.

Blowing dust was reported at Grand Island, Columbus, Hastings, Beatrice, Kearney and Omaha.

Northeastern Nebraska especially was hard hit. Though Norfolk recorded only an inch of snow, the high winds made visibility virtually zero.

Lines Down
Telephone and power lines were ripped down in some areas and numerous windows were broken.

The Safety Patrol said U.S. 81 north of U.S. 20 was closed due to drifting snow. Driving was reported hazardous in the Norfolk, Randolph and Columbus areas.

In Omaha, police said they had reports of broken windows, torn awnings, downed tree limbs and smashed signs. Power lines in some areas of the city were knocked down.

Winds gusted to 75 m.p.h. at Sioux City, piling up drifts several feet high. Much of the city was without electrical power and many churches cancelled services.

Nine inches of heavy, wet snow fell at Sherwood, N.D., and at Park Rapids, Minn. Fargo and Grand Forks, N.D., had seven inches of snow; and St. Cloud and Alexandria, Minn., four inches, with more falling.

Plow Through
Snow blocked roads in eastern North and South Dakota, and farmers plowed through four to six-foot drifts to carry feed to livestock.

Freezing temperatures caused heavy, wet snow to compact into slick road surfaces that caused hundreds of fender-bender accidents.

At least five deaths were attributed to the bad weather.

A western Minnesota trapper died apparently of a heart attack while wandering in the snow near his line. A 71-year-old Minnesota man was killed in a highway collision during a snowstorm, and a 12-year-old boy riding a bicycle was killed when a snow plow hit him.

Frozen To Death

A woman in her 70s was found frozen to death alongside a haystack near Fullerton, N.D. At an icy Des Moines intersection, a 19-year-old girl was killed in a chain-reaction collision.

Twenty-one persons were injured near Little Falls, Minn., when a Greyhound bus overturned after a collision on a snowy highway.

The heavy snow snapped power lines in Minneapolis, cutting off service to a hospital and a suburb. Emergency power was quickly supplied to the hospital through a standby generator.

High winds in Kansas City prevented six airliners from landing. The 60-mile-an-hour blasts also flattened a 170-foot stretch of masonry wall, and overturned six boats on the Missouri River.

Peak wind gusts up to 75 m.p.h. were reported in Topeka, Kan.

Temperatures ranged down to overnight lows of five below zero at Cut Bank, Mont., and -3 at Idaho Falls, Idaho.

Lightning Hits Plane

... IN MARYLAND

Elkton, Md. (P)—Eighty-two persons perished Sunday night in the explosion and flaming crash of a jet airliner near here during a lightning-streaked rainstorm.

Witnesses said they saw lightning hit the plane, transforming it into a ball of fire. They told of seeing some occupants spilled from the flaming wreckage as it plummeted into a cornfield.

A Pan American operations representative at Philadelphia said the last known radio contact between the plane and ground was a terse message, "Going down in flames at 0158 Zebra." or 7:58 p.m., CST.

The message reportedly was overheard by the ground control center in New Castle, Del., and at Dover (Del.) Air Force Base.

The plane, a Boeing 707 on Pan America World Airways flight 214, was minutes away from the end of its 4 hour, 15-minute Puerto Rico-to-Philadelphia run when it bucked into the storm and tragedy struck.

Several Infants
Pan American officials said 74 passengers, including several infants, and a crew of eight were aboard.

A Pan American spokesman said another 71 passengers had disembarked from the plane during its stop in Baltimore.

"We've been over the area," said Lt. Charles L. Andrew of the Maryland State Police, "and there are no living."

He spoke after a tour of the scene—a rain-soaked jumble of confusion marked by patches of fire and still burning bits of wreckage.

"Many, many parts of bodies were found," said Andrew. The plane left San Juan at 4:10 p.m. made a 50-minute stop at Baltimore and was midway along the last 104-mile jump to Philadelphia when its flight abruptly ended about two miles northeast of Elkton.

Shortly before the explosion about two miles northeast of Elkton, the big four-engine jet had been groping its way toward Philadelphia on an instrument approach.

In the next instant it was shattered by a terrifying blast and falling in pieces into a rain-soaked cornfield and on nearby roadways.

Near Baltimore
The scene is some 54 miles northeast of Baltimore, where the plane had made a stop-over moments earlier.

Mrs. Frank Ulmer, a resident of the rural crash area, said the crash occurred shortly before 9 p.m. (EST).

A severe storm accompanied by lightning had hit the area about that time.

Mrs. Ulmer said her son, Clarence Ulmer, saw the flaming wreckage of the plane plummet "like a big ball of fire."

Maryland state police said the recovery of bodies had begun within 90 minutes after the crash.

"It was an explosion in the air," said a state police headquarters official.

Mrs. Helen Warner, cashier at a roller rink just across the border near Glasgow, Del., said merry-makers there "thought it was an atomic bomb."

"The explosion lit up the whole rink and parking lot and shook the building," she said. "Some of the skaters were standing by windows and saw the whole thing happen."

"There was a big flash and a few seconds later you could see the wing torn off. You could actually see people falling out. The plane came down slowly and when it hit the ground it looked like it exploded again."

Witnesses said one of the plane's four engines barely missed one of the few homes in the area and burning parts of the craft set some of the area aflame.

"The whole field was on fire," Greenwald said. "All we could see was rubble."

The area was soon aswamp with fire trucks, state police and spectators who clogged the roads and impeded the passage of officials and rescuers.

The Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington said a team of about 10 investigators was en route to the scene.

Holding Pattern

An FAA spokesman in Washington said the plane was on a holding pattern near the Newcastle, Del., airport, flying at 5,000 feet and awaiting clearance to approach the Philadelphia International Airport.

There was an unconfirmed report that the pilot radioed "We are going down in flames."

U.S. Offers To Assist Bolivia In Freeing Yanks

La Paz, Bolivia (P)—The Bolivian government concentrated 1,000 troops Sunday in an area where Communist-led tin miners held four Americans, three Canadians and 14 others hostage to bargain for the return of two arrested Red leaders.

A White House statement called the seizure of the Americans an indefensible act and President Johnson offered full assistance by the United States in seeking release of the hostages.

The presence of the Canadians among those held became known Sunday when British Ambassador Gibson

Holliday requested they be set free.

Meeting Called
The government of President Victor Paz Estenssoro called a cabinet meeting for Monday to consider emergency measures with which to meet the crisis posed by the seizure of the hostages and the anti-government agitation of Vice President Juan Lechin.

Lechin, a leftist, also heads the tin miners union.

One of the hostage Americans, Thomas Martin, 27, of New York, a U.S. information officer, was again in touch with the embassy by radio-telephone Sunday and said he and his three companions were well. He added that they were under "strong militia guard." He did not elaborate, Martin made a similar call Saturday.

The miners meanwhile announced they would launch a series of strikes Monday at the 25 national mines.

Bolivian press dispatches reported that violence broke out in the mining district of Huanuni. A mob was said to have attacked the local police commander, his wife and children.

The captive Canadians are technicians employed by the National Mining Commission, which runs Bolivia's mines. They were identified as Raymond Brousseau and Aurele Falardeux, of Heap and Sherwood Diamond Drilling Co., Ontario, and James McNamara of Prospection Ltd., Montreal.

Interior Minister Jose Antonio Arze said the government would not give in to the miners' demands.

The Americans had gone into the Catavi area Friday night to deliver a U.S. government aid check for $15,000 toward the building of a school for miners' children. They were seized by the miners after the government in La Paz announced the arrest of Communist union leaders Irineo Pimental and Federico Escobar.

Veterans To Get Policy Pay Early

Washington (P)—President Johnson directed Sunday that $234 million of veteran's insurance dividends be paid early in January to help bolster the economy.

This will represent a speed-up in the payment of 1961 dividends, which normally would be staggered throughout the year on the anniversary dates of individual policies.

The late President John F. Kennedy ordered similar speed-ups in 1962 and 1963.

The White House said $219 million of the total distribution would go to 4.5 million veterans holding federally issued World War II insurance policies.

From WWI
The remaining $15 million will go to 225,000 insured veterans of World War I.

Johnson directed John Gleason, chief of the Veterans' Administration, to make the payments as expeditiously as possible.

It was understood veterans would receive their checks early in January.

White House sources said that, as in the past, early distribution of the dividends is designed to aid the national economy in the winter period when such major seasonal industries as home building are relatively inactive.

Gunshot Kills Lincoln Boy, 16

... WOUNDED IN HUNTING ACCIDENT

Robert Stanley, 16-year-old son of Mrs. Marietta Stanley of 2418 So. 23rd, died Sunday afternoon less than two hours after he was shot in the back of the head in a hunting accident.

Young Stanley was pheasant hunting with three other boys when the accident occurred, according to information gathered by Lancaster County Deputy Sheriff Frank Martin. The incident occurred in a wheat field in Saline County, five miles south and one and three-fourths miles east of Millard.

Deputy Lancaster County

Atty. Ron Lahners said the death "appears to have been accidental" and that no autopsy was planned.

Martin's report said Stanley's companions were Joseph K. Orth, 14, of 931 D; David E. Gewecke, 15, of 120 W. Van Dorn; and John Polhemus, 17, of 722 Hill.

The deputy's report said the three gave the following account of the incident:

The car was stopped in the field with Orth and Gewecke in the back seat and Stanley in the driver's seat. Polhemus was outside the car.

Orth attempted to fire out the window and his 22 caliber rifle discharged accidentally, the bullet hitting Stanley in the back of the head.

Gewecke then held Stanley while Polhemus drove the car to the Lincoln police station, arriving there at 4 p.m. Lt. Bill Satterthwaite provided an emergency escort to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where young Stanley died at 5:20 p.m.

Lancaster County authorities were gathering information for Saline County Sheriff John Tesar, who said he would come to Lincoln Monday to continue the investigation.

Stanley is survived by his mother and his grandmothers. Mrs. Agnes Sukovaty of Lincoln and Mrs. Madge Stanley of Seal Beach, Calif. Authorities said his father was killed in a car-train collision about 15 years ago.

He was a member of St. James Methodist Church and had been active in the YMCA.

Security Tight As LBJ Visits New York City

New York (AP) — President Johnson made a two-hour visit to New York City Sunday, attending the funeral of former New York Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and calling on former President Herbert Hoover during his first trip from Washington as chief executive.

The tightest security arrangements in the city's history were in effect when Johnson arrived at Idlewild Airport aboard the presidential jet on which he had been sworn in after President Kennedy's assassination in Dallas.

In line with security measures, it was not announced in advance that the President would call on Hoover at his residence in the Waldorf-Astoria towers after attending the rites for Lehman.

Thanked For Note
Johnson spent about 10 minutes with Hoover in his 32nd-floor residence, thanking him for a note the 89-year-old former president sent him last week as Johnson began his new duties.

Thirty-five policemen on motorcycles accompanied the President's motorcade on the 18-mile drive from the airport to Manhattan and back again. Some 5,000 uniformed police, plainclothesmen and Secret Service agents patrolled rooftops and streets along the route, which was not announced in advance.

The President waved from inside a closed limousine to scattered crowds along the street. The only sizable crowd was at Temple Emanuel, where Lehman's funeral was held. The 85-year-old Lehman died last Thursday. He had been a Senate colleague of Johnson.

Johnson was accompanied by his wife, Chief Justice Earl Warren, Associate Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, and Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., and others.

Johnson and his wife sat in the first row during the 32-minute service. Secret Service men and city detectives lined the walls, and balconies to the side and rear.

Sharp Contrast
The tight security contrasted sharply with arrangements for Kennedy's last visit to New York on Nov. 14-15, when he requested no motorcycle escort and drove through the city almost as an ordinary citizen.

The presidential plane began the return flight at 2:32 p.m. EST, and reached Andrews Air Force Base at 3:19 p.m. The chief executive flew at once to the White House by helicopter.

Johnson's jet transport taxied to a secluded section

at Idlewild—some distance from the spot where Kennedy normally debarked from the plane.

Several hundred security men swarmed around the area and patrolled outside the airport fence.

The president rode through the city in a closed limousine. This, in itself, was not unusual. Kennedy rode in a similar vehicle on his last trip to New York on Nov. 14-15.

As always, an open touring car, filled with Secret Service agents, drove directly behind the presidential limousine.

No Stops
Johnson's first drive as President through New York City was free of any stops. Each intersection was patrolled by six uniformed officers and a minimum of six policemen stood on both sides of each block through which he traveled—Their backs to the street and their eyes fixed on sidewalk spectators and building windows.

Eight police motorcycles flanked Johnson's limousine and three police cruisers preceded it. Two police helicopters circled overhead during the drive.

Police said six young men carrying shotguns were picked up on beaches near the President's arrival, but they were believed to be duck hunters.

DRIVOTRON . . . checks driver's reaction to dangerous situations.

Safety Institute Open To Public

The cause and prevention of accidents ranging from poisoning, drowning and electrocution through fires and industrial and traffic mishaps will be probed during a statewide safety conference Tuesday and Wednesday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

The conference, called the Nebraska Accident Prevention Institute, will be open to the general public. A feature of the institute will be a safety van housing "Drivotron" equipment.

In an attempt to cover the widest possible range of potential accident situations, institute planners enlisted the aid of more than 20 organizations which have a vested interest in six safety areas.

These are the home, farm, industrial, transportation (traffic), utilities, and—considered as one section—water, recreation and firearms.

Driver Trainees
Visitors to the "Drivotron," in addition to institute participants, are expected to include several high school driver training classes.

The safety van, made available to safety conferences all over the United States, houses "Drivotron" driver test equipment. It is a classroom on wheels.

The unit consists of a standard moving van—tractor and trailer.

A 45-minute safety clinic is presented inside the van which will seat 19 persons and accommodate a few more standees.

The "Drivotron" consists of a simulated driver's seat and instrument panel of a car. In front of the "Drivotron" is a screen which shows films of a variety of driving situations.

Each participant is scored, and very few drivers attain the highest score possible—18.

BURGLARS LOOT BARTLEY FIRMS

Bartley (AP) — Red Willow County Sheriff Jim Short was investigating breakins at the Bartley Post Office and two business places Sunday.

The Bartley postmaster, Alberta Walkington, said loss included some money from the safe.

About $100 was taken from the safe at the Bartley Co-Op Oil Company.

Short said apparently the only thing taken in the break-in at the Bartley Equity Exchange was an acetylene welding unit which was used to open the safe at the post-office.

The burglars also attempted to enter Crawford's IGA Store, located next to the post office.

On Sept. 12 thieves who attempted a break-in at grocery were foiled by store owner Pat Crawford who came after them with a shotgun. A gun battle followed and the thieves escaped. They later were apprehended in Kansas.

If you really want to do something about saving lives, you'll have an excellent opportunity Tuesday morning.

At that time registration for the first Nebraska Accident Prevention Institute will begin at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education at 8 a.m.

Those who have closely watched the preliminary planning of the institute say that never before has a statewide effort gained such momentum in "attraction national safety leaders to join hands with representatives of home, farm, industry, utilities and transportation in a program to prevent accidents and to save lives.

To Help You

Rollin Schneider, safety expert at the University of Nebraska, says that everyone is invited to participate in the two-day institute and that regardless of your business or interest, there will be a program designed to help you put a brake on the accidents that take place in the home, on the farm, in business, industry, utilities or on the highways.

It would be most unusual to find someone who hasn't been hit personally, through relatives, friends or associates by the pain, anguish, suffering and—yes, even many times—death, that have been the results of accidents.

But just how much are we willing to do before we get squarely hit by the tragic results of these accidents? You never know when they are going to happen; you never quite know what part you might play, whether you will have a supporting cast or be the main character in the disaster.

Exacting Approach

The institute will feature nationally known speakers in all fields. A number of the sessions will be of general nature where the subject fits the pattern of general interest. Sectional meetings to make recommendations and resolutions for statewide action will afford a more exacting approach to the different fields.

Lester M. Jensen of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department, general chairman for the institute, sums up these thoughts:

"Man is still the world's most miraculous mechanism. In 70 years of life, a human eats 1,400 times his body weight, more than 100 tons of food, and spends five years just putting food into his mouth.

4,800 Words Daily
If his weight is average, his heart beats 103,600 times every day, he breathes 23,040 times, he inhales 438 cubic feet of air daily and moves 750 major muscles in the same period of time while he utters an average of 4,800 different words.

"This body can take a lot of punishment and still function. A man can get along without his gall bladder, spleen, appendix and bladder, he can give up one kidney, two quarts of blood, a piece of his brain, both eyes, and all of his teeth, and still live.

"Nevertheless, it may take only one little accident to throw the monkey wrench that can stop this wonderful machine cold."

Susceptible Field
Agriculture is one of the most susceptible fields to accidents. That, of course, is of prime importance to me, but those accidents seem to happen just as easily in the home, at play, in business, industry, utilities or even may be more often on the highway.

I am going to cut a vacation short and come back to Lincoln to attend this institute. Just talking about doing something isn't enough.

If we have a chance to get some action, I want to be in line with my $7 registration fee for meals and a meeting where nationally recognized leaders in safety come to Nebraska to recognize a state that is going to do something about accidents.

Security Tight As LBJ Visits New York City

New York (AP) — President Johnson made a two-hour visit to New York City Sunday, attending the funeral of former New York Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and calling on former President Herbert Hoover during his first trip from Washington as chief executive.

The tightest security arrangements in the city's history were in effect when Johnson arrived at Idlewild Airport aboard the presidential jet on which he had been sworn in after President Kennedy's assassination in Dallas.

In line with security measures, it was not announced in advance that the President would call on Hoover at his residence in the Waldorf-Astoria towers after attending the rites for Lehman.

Thanked For Note

Johnson spent about 10 minutes with Hoover in his 32nd-floor residence, thanking him for a note the 89-year-old former president sent him last week as Johnson began his new duties.

Thirty-five policemen on motorcycles accompanied the President's motorcade on the 18-mile drive from the airport to Manhattan and back again.

Some 5,000 uniformed police, plainclothesmen and Secret Service agents patrolled rooftops and streets along the route, which was not announced in advance.

The President waved from inside a closed limousine to scattered crowds along the street. The only sizable crowd was at Temple Emanuel, where Lehman's funeral was held. The 85-year-old Lehman died last Thursday. He had been a Senate colleague of Johnson.

Johnson was accompanied by his wife, Chief Justice Earl Warren, Associate Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, and Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., and others.

Johnson and his wife sat in the first row during the 32-minute service. Secret Service men and city detectives lined the walls, and balconies to the side and rear.

Sharp Contrast

The tight security contrasted sharply with arrangements for Kennedy's last visit to New York on Nov. 14-15, when he requested no motorcycle escort and drove through the city almost as an ordinary citizen.

The presidential plane began the return flight at 2:32 p.m., EST, and reached Andrews Air Force Base at 3:19 p.m. The chief executive flew at once to the White House by helicopter.

Johnson's jet transport taxied to a secluded section

at Idlewild—some distance from the spot where Kennedy normally debarked from the plane.

Several hundred security men swarmed around the area and patrolled outside the airport fence.

The president rode through the city in a closed limousine. This, in itself, was not unusual. Kennedy rode in a similar vehicle on his last trip to New York on Nov. 14-15.

As always, an open touring car, filled with Secret Service agents, drove directly behind the presidential limousine.

No Stops

Johnson's first drive as President through New York City was free of any stops. Each intersection was patrolled by six uniformed officers and a minimum of six policemen stood on both sides of each block through which he traveled—Their backs to the street and their eyes fixed on sidewalk spectators and building windows.

Eight police motorcycles flanked Johnson's limousine and three police cruisers preceded it. Two police helicopters circled overhead during the drive.

Police said six young men carrying shotguns were picked up on beaches near the airport before the President's arrival, but they were believed to be duck hunters.

Safety Institute Open To Public

The cause and prevention of accidents ranging from poisoning, drowning and electrocution through fires and industrial and traffic mishaps will be probed during a statewide safety conference Tuesday and Wednesday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

The conference, called the Nebraska Accident Prevention Institute, will be open to the general public. A feature of the institute will be a safety van housing "Drivotron" equipment.

In an attempt to cover the widest possible range of potential accident situations, institute planners enlisted the aid of more than 20 organizations which have a vested interest in six safety areas.

These are the home, farm, industrial, transportation (traffic), utilities, and—considered as one section—water, recreation and firearms.

Driver Trainees

Visitors to the "Drivotron," in addition to institute participants, are expected to include several high school driver training classes.

The safety van, made available to safety conferences all over the United States, houses "Drivotron" driver test equipment. It is a classroom on wheels.

The unit consists of a standard moving van—tractor and trailer.

A 45-minute safety clinic is presented inside the van which will seat 19 persons and accommodate a few more standees.

The "Drivotron" consists of a simulated driver's seat and instrument panel of a car. In front of the "Drivotron" is a screen which shows films of a variety of driving situations.

Each participant is scored, and very few drivers attain the highest score possible—18.

BURGLARS LOOT BARTLEY FIRMS

Bartley (AP) — Red Willow County Sheriff Jim Short was investigating breakins at the Bartley Post Office and two business places Sunday.

The Bartley postmaster, Alberta Walkington, said loss included some money from the safe.

About $100 was taken from the safe at the Bartley Co-Op Oil Company.

Short said apparently the only thing taken in the break-in at the Bartley Equity Exchange was an acetylene welding unit which was used to open the safe at the post-office.

The burglars also attempted to enter Cramer's IGA Store, located next to the post office.

On Sept. 12 thieves who attempted a break-in at grocery were foiled by store owner Pat Cramer who came after them with a shotgun. A gun battle followed and the thieves escaped. They later were apprehended in Kansas.

Grand Island Pair Murdered In Hotel

... Estranged Husband Held

Grand Island (U)—A 62-year-old Denver man was in custody of police Sunday night and County Attorney Richard DeBacker said he would be charged with first degree murder in connection with two deaths.

Jailed was Edgar Troy Langley, estranged husband of the victims.

DeBacker identified the two shot fatally as Mrs. Estelle Langley, 59, operator of Grand Island's Mayfair Hotel, and a resident of the hotel, Ralph Beck, 59.

Police said witnesses to the shooting said Langley walked into the hotel lobby and put his arm around Mrs. Langley and was told by a hotel resident: "She's my honey."

Witnesses said he pulled out a pistol and Mrs. Langley called out: "No, Troy, no."

Police recovered a gun from which they said three shots had been fired. Both of the victims were shot in the chest.

Langley had been living in Denver, but apparently visited Grand Island frequently.

The county attorney said Mrs. Langley had relieved the hotel desk clerk for a lunch break and was standing at the desk when the shooting took place. Beck also was in the lobby at the time.

DeBacker declined to comment on a motive for the shooting.

DeBacker said Langley has signed a statement, but would give no details of what it contained.

"We have a very strong case," he said.

GOP Candidate Asks Elimination Of Foreign Aid

Omaha (UPI)—A candidate for the GOP nomination to Congress from the second Congressional District said he would run on a platform to eliminate foreign aid to all countries and to collect outstanding debts from European nations.

Raymond J. Croisant, an Omaha insurance man, said he would recommend the public replace foreign aid with heavier contributions through service organizations such as the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, and through missionary organizations.

"Too much of our foreign aid money has been squandered by the ruling class of these countries," Croisant said.

Lodge Doesn't Rule Out Idea Of Candidacy

Salmon, Viet Nam (U)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was asked Sunday whether he might be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964 and did not directly rule out the possibility.

Questioned about a story published by the New York Times that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had asked him to seek the nomination, Lodge said he had received no communication from Eisenhower. Asked how he would react if he did, Lodge replied:

"Naturally, anything from Gen. Eisenhower would be considered with great respect. I worked with him in war and peace, and have great respect for him."

He declined further comment.

Eisenhower also denied sending any communication to Lodge about the presidential nomination.

Lodge, national chairman of the Eisenhower-for-President Committee in 1952, was Richard M. Nixon's vice presidential running mate on the Republican ticket in 1960.

Recently Elected Korea Assembly To Meet Dec. 17

Seoul (U)—South Korea's military junta announced Sunday the newly-elected national assembly will convene Dec. 17 and strongman Chung Hee Park will be sworn in as the nation's president.

The swearing-in ceremony will end a period of military rule imposed after Park overthrew the government of Premier John M. Chang in May 1961.

Park, 46, was elected president Oct. 15. The national assembly was elected Nov. 26 with Park's Democratic Republican Party winning 110 of the 175 assembly seats.

Ten Counties Sign Contracts For Mandatory Reappraisals

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

A check with the State Tax Commissioner's office shows that 10 Nebraska counties have signed contracts for reappraisal of all lands and improvements as required under a new law passed by the 1963 Legislature, and at least 12 more are in the preparation stage.

Mandatory reappraisals have been ordered for all counties every six to 16 years under LB375, a bill which grew out of the McClelland Tax Study.

The 10 counties which have signed contracts did so prior to the effective date of the new law Oct. 19. They are:

Garden, Perkins, Adams, Howard, Nance, Polk, Butler, York, Saline and Sarpy counties.

Group Contract
During the past week State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson visited with officials from six counties in western Nebraska who plan to sign a contract as a group for reappraisal of their counties. These are: Hooker, Thomas, Arthur, McPherson, Blaine and Grant.

Four more counties—Washington, Burt, Thurston and Cumming—have formed a joint committee to discuss signing a unit contract.

Two more counties, Clay and Hall, reportedly are in the process of signing reappraisal contracts.

Purpose of the reappraisals is to achieve a more accurate determination of the actual value of lands and improvements for assessment purposes, thereby attaining greater uniformity and equality in taxation.

Binding
Under the new law, findings of the reappraisal shall be binding upon all political subdivisions levying taxes in the county, including home rule charter cities.

If any county fails to enter into an approved reappraisal contract within the time limits prescribed in the new law, the state tax commissioner is then required to enter into a contract for the county's reappraisal.

The time limits in the new law vary according to the date of a county's last reappraisal. They range from Jan. 1, 1966, for those counties which have not had a reappraisal since Jan. 1, 1947, up to 10 years after any reappraisal entered into between 1959 and Oct. 19, 1963.

Many counties have indicated informally to the tax commissioner that they plan to enter into reappraisal contracts prior to their prescribed time limits.

WEATHER

Summary of Conditions

An intense but weakening low pressure area is centered over Wisconsin and extends westward over most of Nebraska and western Iowa. A weak ridge is beginning to appear over the low as it moves east. However, a new storm center is now beginning to move eastward through southeastern Oregon and is expected to be in the vicinity of northern New Mexico by Monday evening. Cold air now over central Canada is expected to continue to push south across the northern Plains into the Nebraska low a region keeping air dry and reducing cloudiness over the area. As the low to the northeast fills and weakens it will decrease the winds over the central Plains Monday.

Sales will be partly cloudy Monday with diminished northerly winds and a little warmer. Increased sunshine will allow for the warming Monday.

Beatrice Youth Is Held In Shooting Of Brother

Beatrice (UPI)—A 17-year-old Beatrice youth was being held on an open charge Sunday in connection with the fatal shooting of his 15-year-old brother.

Held in the slaying of Ronald Hackbarth was his brother, Walter (Butch) Hackbarth.

Ronald died in Beatrice Lutheran Hospital Sunday morning after suffering a bullet wound in the head Saturday.

Admission
Gage County Atty. Merrell Anderson said Walter admitted firing the fatal bullet. He was arrested Saturday night by Sheriff Fred Steinkamp Jr. after officers learned a third person had been present at the time of the slaying at the Hackbarth apartment. The shooting had at first been thought an accident. Walter had told police he was talking on the phone to Valerie Osburn, 14, of Beatrice, at the time his brother was shot.

The girl, however, told officers she was talking to another youth who was at the Hackbarth apartment, Frank Watts, 20, of near Odell, when she heard shots over the phone.

Story Concocted
Walter later admitted he had shot his brother with a .22-caliber rifle and that he and Watts had concocted the story about the shooting being an accident.

No immediate reason was given for the shooting.

Anderson said the investigation was continuing and that he had not determined if criminal charges would be filed or if the matter would be presented to a coroner's jury. Watts was not held.

Four crewmen from the schooner Fort Albany perished and one was reported injured. No casualties were reported aboard the freighter.

Grand Island Pair Murdered In Hotel

... Estranged Husband Held

Grand Island (P)—A 62-year-old Denver man was in custody of police Sunday night and County Attorney Richard DeBacker said he would be charged with first degree murder in connection with two deaths.

Jailed was Edgar Troy Langley, estranged husband of the victims.

DeBacker identified those shot fatally as Mrs. Estelle Langley, 59, operator of Grand Island's Mayfair Hotel, and a resident of the hotel, Ralph Beck, 59.

Police said witnesses to the shooting said Langley walked into the hotel lobby and put his arm around Mrs. Langley and was told by a hotel resident: "She's my honey."

Witnesses said he pulled out a pistol and Mrs. Langley called out: "No, Troy, no."

Police recovered a gun from which they said three shots had been fired. Both of the victims were shot in the chest.

Langley had been living in Denver, but apparently visited Grand Island frequently.

The county attorney said Mrs. Langley had relieved the hotel desk clerk for a lunch break and was standing at the desk when the shooting took place. Beck also was in the lobby at the time.

DeBacker declined to comment on a motive for the shooting.

DeBacker said Langley has signed a statement, but would give no details of what it contained.

"We have a very strong case," he said.

GOP Candidate Asks Elimination Of Foreign Aid

Omaha (UPI) — A candidate for the GOP nomination to Congress from the second Congressional District said he would run on a platform to eliminate foreign aid to all countries and to collect outstanding debts from European nations.

Raymond J. Croisant, an Omaha insurance man, said he would recommend the public replace foreign aid with heavier contributions through service organizations such as the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, and through missionary organizations.

"Too much of our foreign aid money has been squandered by the ruling class of these countries," Croisant said.

Lodge Doesn't Rule Out Idea Of Candidacy

Saigon, Viet Nam (P)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was asked Sunday whether he might be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964 and did not directly rule out the possibility.

Questioned about a story published by the New York Times that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had asked him to seek the nomination, Lodge said he had received no communication from Eisenhower. Asked how he would react if he did, Lodge replied:

"Naturally, anything from Gen. Eisenhower would be considered with great respect. I worked with him in war and peace, and have great respect for him."

He declined further comment.

Eisenhower also denied sending any communication to Lodge about the presidential nomination.

Lodge, national chairman of the Eisenhower-for-President Committee in 1952, was Richard M. Nixon's vice presidential running mate on the Republican ticket in 1960.

Recently Elected Korea Assembly To Meet Dec. 17

Seoul (P) — South Korea's military junta announced Sunday the newly-elected national assembly will convene Dec. 17 and strongman Chung Hee Park will be sworn in as the nation's president.

The swearing-in ceremony will end a period of military rule imposed after Park overthrew the government of Premier John M. Chang in May 1961.

Park, 46, was elected president Oct. 15. The national assembly was elected Nov. 26 with Park's Democratic Republican Party winning 110 of the 175 assembly seats.

Ten Counties Sign Contracts For Mandatory Reappraisals

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

A check with the State Tax Commissioner's office shows that 10 Nebraska counties have signed contracts for reappraisal of all lands and improvements as required under a new law passed by the 1963 Legislature, and at least 12 more are in the preparation stage.

Mandatory reappraisals have been ordered for all counties every six to 16 years under LB375, a bill which grew out of the McClelland Tax Study.

The 10 counties which have signed contracts did so prior to the effective date of the new law Oct. 19. They are:

Garden, Perkins, Adams, Howard, Nance, Polk, Butler, York, Saline and Sarpy counties.

Group Contract
During the past week State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson visited with officials from six counties in western Nebraska who plan to sign a contract as a group for reappraisal of their counties.

These are: Hooker, Thomas, Arthur, McPherson, Blaine and Grant.

Four more counties—Washington, Burt, Thurston and Cuming—have formed a joint committee to discuss signing a unit contract.

Two more counties, Clay and Hall, reportedly are in the process of signing reappraisal contracts.

Purpose of the reappraisals is to achieve a more accurate determination of the actual value of lands and improvements for assessment purposes, thereby attaining greater uniformity and equality in taxation.

Binding
Under the new law, findings of the reappraisal shall be binding upon all political subdivisions levying taxes in the county, including home rule charter cities.

If any county fails to enter into an approved reappraisal contract within the time limits prescribed in the new law, the state tax commissioner is then required to enter into a contract for the county's reappraisal.

The time limits in the new law vary according to the date of a county's last reappraisal. They range from Jan. 1, 1966, for those counties which have not had a reappraisal since Jan. 1, 1947, up to 10 years after any reappraisal entered into between 1959 and Oct. 19, 1963.

Many counties have indicated informally to the tax commissioner that they plan to enter into reappraisal contracts prior to their prescribed time limits.

Beatrice Youth Is Held In Shooting Of Brother

Beatrice (UPI) — A 17-year-old Beatrice youth was being held on an open charge Sunday in connection with the fatal shooting of his 15-year-old brother.

Held in the slaying of Ronald Hackbarth was his brother, Walter (Butch) Hackbarth. Ronald died in Beatrice Lutheran Hospital Sunday morning after suffering a bullet wound in the head Saturday.

Admission
Gage County Atty. Merrell Anderson said Walter admitted firing the fatal bullet. He was arrested Saturday night by Sheriff Fred Steinkamp Jr. after officers learned a third person had been present at the time of the slaying at the Hackbarth apartment.

The shooting had at first been thought an accident. Walter had told police he was talking on the phone to Valerie Osburn, 14, of Beatrice, at the time his brother was shot.

The girl, however, told officers she was talking to another youth who was at the Hackbarth apartment, Frank Watts, 20, of near Odell, when she heard shots over the phone.

Story Concocted
Walter later admitted he had shot his brother with a .22-caliber rifle and that he and Watts had concocted the story about the shooting being an accident.

No immediate reason was given for the shooting.

Anderson said the investigation was continuing and that he had not determined if criminal charges would be filed or if the matter would be presented to a coroner's jury. Watts was not held.

Stockmen Back Cut In Imports

Valentine (P)—A regional meeting of the Nebraska Stock Growers Association went on record in favor of imposition of "realistic quotas" on import of foreign beef "below the 11% now being imported."

More than 250 members of the association from over the state attended the session.

A resolution said "the entire livestock industry and those dependent upon it are suffering from increasing supplies of foreign beef and beef products being brought into the country."

Those attending heard Oscar Evans of White Castle, La., past president of the Louisiana Cattlemen's Association, discuss the impact of foreign meat on the domestic market, particularly beef from New Zealand and Australia.

He suggested a raise in tariff on import of foreign meat.

Another speaker was Mrs. Frank Morrison, wife of the governor. She told about her recent tourist promotion trip to Europe.

THE WEATHER

Summary of Conditions
An intense but weakening low pressure area is centered over Wisconsin and extends westward over most of Nebraska and western Iowa. A weak ridge is beginning to appear over the western high Plains to the rear of the low as it moves east. However, a new storm center is now beginning to move eastwards through southeastern Oregon and is expected to be in the vicinity of northern New Mexico by Monday evening. Cold air now over central Canada is expected to continue to push south across the northern Plains into the Nebraska-Iowa region keeping air dry and reducing cloudiness over the area. As the low to the northeast fills and weakens it will decrease the winds over the central Plains Monday.

Skies will be partly cloudy Monday with diminished northerly winds and a little warmer. Increased sunshine will allow for the warming Monday.

Days Of Endless Joy

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The average run of advertising received in the mail is considered by most households as a nuisance but such is not the case with all such mail at all times of the year. This is the time, for instance, when the home becomes loaded with booklets or pamphlets displaying the Christmas wares of all the stores. How far this material goes in achieving what it is intended to achieve is uncertain but it performs, definitely, a service that was not primarily intended.

It may or may not sell Mother or Dad on the goods displayed therein but it represents the start of the Christmas season for children. The first such publication that arrives soon becomes a real collector's item. The first youngster who spots it lays immediate claim thereto and from there the battle is joined. As the days go by, more such mail arrives and soon there is enough for all the youngsters. No more dog-eared publications are ever seen than those that display the toys, games, etc., that are on the shelves for Christmas shoppers. By the hour, the youngsters page through the pamphlets, pointing out one item after another that earns their fascination.

And there seems to be no end to their capacity to want. There are dolls, wagons, farm sets, army sets, trucks, skates, doll clothes, blocks, guns and games galore. There is such a multitude of things as to all but overwhelm the wide-eyed children.

When we were young, we used to dream of candy land and ice cream mountains and other things and many such dreams are no doubt a part of young lives today. At this time of year, however, the dreams are of a fairland of toys. In their minds, the children are so surrounded with gay playthings that there is hardly time to do any of them justice.

Only for a little while can the child skate because off in the distance is a doll to play with and beyond that is a game and for as far as the eye can see, there are new things to explore and enjoy. But a dream it is and even those so occupied come to know it as such. They come to know that all they see cannot be theirs, even though the realization is a hard one to come by. This is when the child must settle down to the tortuous task of selecting those things that are wanted most of all. The pamphlets get a real going over at this point as the decisions that must be made call for painstaking examination and thought. After all, a settling on a few things out of hundreds is no easy job.

The smaller children haven't yet acquired the same sense of values as their older brothers and sisters but they get the job done. They select in terms of numbers. They try to settle on three or four items with cost obviously no part of their decision. There may be a $20 item and a $1 item to choose between and the $1 item has just as good a chance as does the $20 one. There are some pitfalls for the parents in this system so it calls for some guidance—gentle discouraging of too many high-priced items and encouragement on items on the lower end of the price scale. The older children have gotten to the point where they will make their selections in consideration of money.

If they are somewhat normal, this is not too dangerous a method to permit. At least in the pre-teens, $10 or $12 on up is getting into big money. If, at this point, the number of items is too small, there follows a substitution based on price so that the number of items becomes respectable and the total price reasonable.

Of course, the process is a daily one and the selections are changed with great regularity. One of two items, perhaps, remain constant on the most wanted list but others are on and off the list in rapid-fire order. Every time the list is revised, it must be read, and explained where necessary, to the parents.

Maybe, too, you are put on the spot to guess the total "actual retail value" of the group of things found on the list. Too conservative an estimate is likely to bring a hurt reaction. A liberal estimate, however, brings quite a smile as the child assumes from it a frugality for himself and presumes from that the adult approval sought. With the conservative estimate, you might even provoke an offer to chip in $2.31 held in savings by the youngster. It is one of those offers, of course, where the giver's spirit is willing but the recipient's flesh is weak and the transaction is never consummated.

On the one hand, the experience is full of excitement and great anxiety. On the other, that of the parents, it is an experience of great joy and endless satisfaction. There is a pure simplicity to it all that isn't found at any other time, in any place or with any other human beings—a simplicity refreshing to behold and be a part of.

Judging The Value

No Mixed Nuclear Force

In an important test vote, European nations have turned down the U.S. proposal for a mixed manned nuclear force for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The proposal was severely attacked as a military maneuver but its defeat can be laid to other reasons.

The mixed manned pooling of resources simply did not fit that European sentiment which is dominated by a strong feeling of nationalism. The core of the situation involves the old clash between independence all along the line on the part of European nations and reliance upon the United States.

This independence is represented most forcefully in the person of Charles de Gaulle of France who continues to raise the issue of U.S. reliability. This is the question that haunts West Germany and which made the assassination of the late President Ken-neddy such a vital matter, aside from the great personal liking held by West Germany for the late President.

With U.S. support in force, Germany has not even a dream of eventual unification and great fears of her very existence as separate divisions of East and West. Thus, the nations of Europe look to their own military refinement as a hedge against any future change toward isolationism on the part of the United States.

A mixed manned nuclear force would not promote the military establishment of individual nations as would separate national forces under a unified NATO command. Thus, the question of the mixed manned force is not strictly a military one. The failure of the proposal at this stage underscores the task faced by this nation in forging an alliance of strength.

The Third Cruise

It is worthy of note and great national satisfaction that the good ship Hope has started on its third international cruise.

The Hope is our hospital ship, an admirably equipped and staffed mobile carrier of the latest and best of the healing art. It goes its own way, always towards points of great need, oblivious of our state department and international diplomacy. It runs on money contributed by American individuals.

On this cruise the Hope will call at Ecuador. Like much of Latin America, Ecuador is a land of urgent need in public health. It is afflicted by a shortage of clinics, physicians and medical technicians, too. Its people are not schooled in the protective facilities and practices of health. Naturally it experiences much physical misery.

We Are Doing Better

The American memory has an affinity for the decimal system. Unless stern law forces annual observances we more or less insist on saving our best sentiments for anniversaries which end in naught or five—like tenth, twenty-fifth, fiftieth or hundredth.

We presume that is why this year we are paying special attention to the end of the prohibition era. The country abandoned the "noble experiment" 30 years ago. This was after falling miserably at character building for 14 years.

Avoiding the question of right and wrong, statistics seem to prove that a certain amount of temperance accompanied the abandonment of prohibition by law. The statisticians say that Americans drank 1.71 gallons of very bad liquor per year during the prohibition period. In 1959 the annual per capita consumption was down to 1.28 gallons.

During the Civil War years, which were about 100 years ago, the average annual consumption per capita was 2.86 gallons—almost twice what it is now. We will not be authority for that statistic because that long ago the manufacture and consumption of spirits was still quite a private matter and the country at that time had an aversion to keeping tabs on much of anything. But it is true that the American of 100 years ago related hard drinking to hard tasks. Quite a few of our leading generals drank their way through the Civil War. It seemed to have a steadying effect on the troops of both the North and South to see their general mounted on a spirited horse in a place of obvious danger, injuring himself to shot and shell plus the finer nuances of tactics with a bottle of "Old Wormwood." Pioneering also took a lot of spiritus frumenti, an item which often headed the grocery list.

All in all, the picture is encouraging although quite long range. The more civilized people become the less they indulge in follies.

"It's The Christmas Season—Time To Hang Up The Legislation"

DREW PEARSON

LBJ Builds Fire Under Congress

EDITORS NOTE: The Washington Merry-Go-Round is written today by Jack Anderson, Drew Pearson's associate.)

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson, the tall Texan now in the saddle, knows how to handle a balky mare: He alternately whips her soothingly in her ear and digs his spurs into her rump.

These are precisely the tactics LBJ is now using on Congress, the ornierest critter in the Washington corral. Congress has dillydallied, doodled, dawdled, and delayed until it has caused near chaos in many government agencies.

The Appropriations Committee still haven't approved most of the funds that the agencies were supposed to receive six months ago to operate. Of the 12 major appropriations bills, only five have been passed.

This has forced the agencies to get along on temporary bills that last only one month and limit spending to the amounts budgeted the previous year.

Such major government departments as state, justice, commerce, and agriculture are still struggling along on this hand-to-mouth basis. They aren't permitted to spend a dime for new projects or activities.

Dozens of new post offices, for example, have no scrub-women to wash the floors. The general services administration, which is in charge of government housekeeping, has no money to hire more floor washers.

Most of this stalling is deliberate—partly to delay or prevent passage of the civil rights program; partly to force cuts in the budget.

By delaying or denying new appropriations, congressional curmudgeons hoped to force savings upon the administration. In a sense, they have been holding the appropriations bills as hostages to assure an economy budget next year.

The trouble with this technique is that the government agencies can't plan next year's budget until they get this year's appropriations. Obviously, it is impossible for them to estimate how much they will need until they learn how much they now are supposed to have.

To get Congress moving again, President Johnson has been singling the leaders out of the herd, backing them into a corner, and alternately soothing and prodding them.

He has invited them to the White House for individual visits, has telephoned them repeatedly. Now pleading, now pressuring, he uses a combination of power and persuasion.

Today he is on the other side of the federal fence: he is anxious to push civil rights past the filibuster hurdle. He is also committed to a tax cut, medical care for the elderly, and other Kennedy reforms that are opposed by the power group he once headed.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Mental Health Law Monument To JFK

WASHINGTON — Of all the memorials to President Kennedy none promises more for the future than one which in a sense he initiated himself.

In the deep frustration he experienced in the last months of his administration, as a balky and often hostile Congress held up the principal proposals in his legislative program, one satisfaction stood out. That was the $329,000,000 mental health program finally passed and signed into law. With the help of powerful allies in and out of Congress he had pushed this important step quietly and persistently.

Although Congress cut his initial request by more than half, shearing away important aspects of the program, it is nevertheless a big step forward. The goal is community mental health centers which, in the testimony of Dr. Robert H. Felix, Director of Mental Health, can cut down care in institutions by half within 15 years. One of Kennedy's last acts on the day before he was assassinated was to send Congress budgetary requests for three of the five separate programs so they could be started as quickly as possible.

How much this meant to the late President he revealed to only a few friends and co-workers. Behind the triumphs of the Kennedy family, their worldly success, was a private sorrow. The eldest daughter, Rosemary, mentally retarded, has spent much of her life in an institution.

This gave JFK a special interest in mental rehabilitation and psychiatric care. The Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation was given large sums for the study of retardation.

The President's concern was, however, much broader than this one phase of a branch of medicine still in a formative state and in urgent need of expansion both in research and in training. He was convinced that the program he initiated would provide a broad, new base for treatment of the mentally sick. He felt gratified that at least a start had been made.

Lee Harvey Oswald, it has been disclosed, showed in early adolescence symptoms of a serious mental disorder. That was while he lived briefly in New York. Commitment for psychiatric care was recommended but never carried out. Facilities are always overcrowded, waiting lists long. Oswald and his mother resumed the wandering that took them from state to state in search of a livelihood.

Who can say that the course of history would not have been different if this sick adolescent, growing into warped and menacing manhood, had had adequate care or had if necessary been confined? And who can say how many Oswalds, harboring murderous hate and paranoid fear and suspicion, are abroad in the land?

Profiles In Science

Theoretically a vacuum is space emptied of all matter, not just of air.

It is theoretical because so far it has not been possible to empty a vessel absolutely. "Absolute vacuum" is an academic term that has not yet been realized in fact.

Torricelli, the Italian scientist famous for the invention of the barometer, devised the first known method of producing a vacuum. He filled a glass tube, closed at one end, with mercury and then, turning it upside-down and placing the open end in a basin of mercury, saw the pressure or weight of the atmosphere depress the column of liquid, leaving a "partial vacuum" at the upper end of the tube.

Excited by these experiments and those of Blaise Pascal, Otto von Guericke (1602-1686), a German city official who devoted his leisure to science, began trying to find a better means of creating a vacuum.

He first filled a barrel with water and then pumped it dry, using a suction pump like those used to draw water. He hoped that the space that had been emptied of water would remain empty. Instead, he found that air passed through the sides, and all he had when he was done was a barrel of air instead of barrel of water.

Von Guericke, who was first alderman and then mayor of Magdeburg, Germany, then fashioned a globe of copper and fitted it with a suction pump. He was more successful this time and not only found that he could pump out the water, but that he also could pump out the air.

Thus Guericke, in 1650, developed what is still known as the air pump, essentially a modification of the water pump.

News of his experiments reached the Habsburg emperor and von Guericke performed a remarkable experiment before him, using two hollow copper hemispheres, or half-globes, which fitted snugly and tightly together.

After pumping off the air with his pump, 15 horses were harnessed to each hemisphere and were used to try to drag them apart.

The vacuum inside the globe—or rather, the pressure of the atmosphere outside—held, and the 30 horses failed to separate the two hemispheres.

Von Guericke also experimented with electricity, inventing a machine that produced power by the rotation of a ball of sulphur within a globe. He also achieved more than local fame by predicting the arrival of comets overhead, a "trick" learned by studying the orbits of comets and their periodicity.

Liquor Interests

Lincoln, Neb. As a West Lincoln resident, I am concerned about the affairs of our village.

I have started to wonder why the only commercial establishments we can get here have to be connected with the liquor trade. Recently the board granted a license for another steak house but in connection with the steak house, dancing and drinking of liquor are to be allowed.

We have lots of vacant land here that can be used for almost any purpose. We have a very nice set of apartment houses here and there is room for more or possibly a trailer court or two.

I don't believe our village will ever amount to much if only the liquor interests locate here.

Return To Prayer

Lincoln, Neb. It is good to send hundreds of letters to Mrs. Kennedy. But let us save a few stamps and begin writing to our congressmen, demanding that the entrance and distribution of communist literature in the United States be stopped.

We need to check in another area of American life. Our Supreme Court has, in effect, prohibited the free exercise of Bible reading and prayer in schools where patrons, teachers and children want them. And so far we have allowed that decision to stand.

Another thing that every American family can and should do immediately is to establish daily Bible reading and prayer at home. We should get the young people into church and we should take them, not send them.

Our country was founded "under God," but we have grown careless. If the tragedy of the last two weeks results in a national return to the God of the Founding Fathers, President John F. Kennedy will not have died in vain.

Grandpa says it looks to him like, with the trouble the N.F.B. is havin' keepin' them Webster County boys in rein, the last thing on earth they'd want to do is take the halter off. He says if someone gets Webster County mad enough, they may come up with the idea of startin' a whole new Farm Bureau just for farmers.

After readin' those N.F.B. resolutions, Grandpa says this country ain't seen such a pack of foolishness since King George told them colonists to drink his tea, p a y their taxes and shut their mouths. He says if them fellows from Webster County want to throw a tea party, there would probably be plenty of people who would like to furnish the feathers (for their headgear!).

Grandpa says, come to think of it, one of the things a Farm Bureau member can get kicked out for—besides exercisin' his freedom of speech—is committin' a felony. He says the way some of them state and national boys talk about their government, he wouldn't be surprised if they're the first ones kicked out, on account of treason is supposed to be a felony, and some of them ain't got far to go.

Days Of Endless Joy

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The average run of advertising received in the mail is considered by most households as a nuisance but such is not the case with all such mail at all times of the year. This is the time, for instance, when the home becomes loaded with booklets or pamphlets displaying the Christmas wares of all the stores. How far this material goes in achieving what it is intended to achieve is uncertain but it performs, definitely, a service that was not primarily intended.

It may or may not sell Mother or Dad on the goods displayed therein but it represents the start of the Christmas season for children. The first such publication that arrives soon becomes a real collector's item. The first youngster who spots it lays immediate claim thereto and from there the battle is joined. As the days go by, more such mail arrives and soon there is enough for all the youngsters. No more dog-eared publications are ever seen than those that display the toys, games, etc., that are on the shelves for Christmas shoppers. By the hour, the youngsters page through the pamphlets, pointing out one item after another that earns their fascination.

And there seems to be no end to their capacity to want. There are dolls, wagons, farm sets, army sets, trucks, skates, doll clothes, blocks, guns and games galore. There is such a multitude of things as to all but overwhelm the wide-eyed children.

When we were young, we used to dream of candy land and ice cream mountains and other things and many such dreams are no doubt a part of young lives today. At this time of year, however, the dreams are of a fairyland of toys. In their minds, the children are so surrounded with gay playthings that there is hardly time to do any of them justice.

Only for a little while can the child skate because off in the distance is a doll to play with and beyond that is a game and for as far as the eye can see, there are new things to explore and enjoy. But a dream it is and even those so occupied come to know it as such. They come to know that all they see cannot be theirs, even though the realization is a hard one to come by. This is when the child must settle down to the tortuous task of selecting those things that are wanted most of all. The pamphlets get a real going over at this point as the decisions that must be made call for painstaking examination and thought. After all, a settling on a few things out of hundreds is no easy job.

The smaller children haven't yet acquired the same sense of values as their older brothers and sisters but they get the job done. They select in terms of numbers. They try to settle on three or four items with cost obviously no part of their decision. There may be a $20 item and a $1 item to choose between and the $1 item has just as good a chance as does the $20 one. There are some pitfalls for the parents in this system so it calls for some guidance—gentle discouraging of too many high-priced items and encouragement on items on the lower end of the price scale. The older children have gotten to the point where they will make their selections in consideration of money.

If they are somewhat normal, this is not too dangerous a method to permit. At least in the pre-teens, $10 or $12 on up is getting into big money. If, at this point, the number of items is too small, there follows a substitution based on price so that the number of items becomes respectable and the total price reasonable.

Of course, the process is a daily one and the selections are changed with great regularity. One of two items, perhaps, remain constant on the most wanted list but others are on and off the list in rapid-fire order. Every time the list is revised, it must be read, and explained where necessary, to the parents.

Maybe, too, you are put on the spot to guess the total "actual retail value" of the group of things found on the list. Too conservative an estimate is likely to bring a hurt reaction. A liberal estimate, however, brings quite a smile as the child assumes from it a frugality for himself and presumes from that the adult approval sought. With the conservative estimate, you might even provoke an offer to chip in $2.31 held in savings by the youngster. It is one of those offers, of course, where the giver's spirit is willing but the recipient's flesh is weak and the transaction is never consummated.

On the one hand, the experience is full of excitement and great anxiety. On the other, that of the parents, it is an experience of great joy and endless satisfaction. There is a pure simplicity to it all that isn't found at any other time, in any place or with any other human beings—a simplicity refreshing to behold and be a part of.

LBJ Builds Fire Under Congress

EDITORS NOTE: The Washington Merry-Go-Round is written today by Jack Anderson, Drew Pearson's associate.)

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson, the tall Texan now in the saddle, knows how to handle a balky mare: He alternately whistles soothingly in her ear and digs his spurs into her rump.

These are precisely the tactics LBJ is now using on Congress, the ornierest critter in the Washington corral.

Congress has dillydallied, doddled, dawdled, and delayed until it has caused near chaos in many government agencies.

The Appropriations Committee still haven't approved most of the funds that the agencies were supposed to receive six months ago to operate. Of the 12 major appropriations bills, only five have been passed.

This has forced the agencies to get along on temporary bills that last only one month and limit spending to the amounts budgeted the previous year.

Such major government departments as state, justice, commerce, and agriculture are still struggling along on this hand-to-mouth basis. They aren't permitted to spend a dime for new projects or activities.

Dozens of new post offices, for example, have no scrub-women to wash the floors. The general services administration, which is in charge of government housekeeping, has no money to hire more floor washers.

Most of this stalling is deliberate—partly to delay or prevent passage of the civil rights program; partly to force cuts in the budget.

By delaying or denying new appropriations, congressional curmudgeons hope to force savings upon the administration. In a sense, they have been holding the appropriations bills as hostages to assure an economy budget next year.

The trouble with this technique is that the government agencies can't plan next year's budget until they get this year's appropriations. Obviously, it is impossible for them to estimate how much they will need until they learn how much they now are supposed to have.

To get Congress moving again, President Johnson has been singling the leaders out of the herd, backing them into a corner, and alternately soothing and prodding them.

He has invited them to the White House for individual visits, has telephoned them repeatedly. Now pleading, now pressuring, he uses a combination of power and persuasion.

Today he is on the other side of the federal fence; he is anxious to push civil rights past the filibuster hurdle. He is also committed to a tax cut, medical care for the elderly, and other Kennedy reforms that are opposed by the power group he once headed.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Mental Health Law Monument To JFK

WASHINGTON — Of all the memorials to President Kennedy none promises more for the future than one which in a sense he initiated himself.

In the deep frustration he experienced in the last months of his administration, as a balky and often hostile Congress held up the principal proposals in his legislative program, one satisfaction stood out. That was the $329,000,000 mental health program finally passed and signed into law. With the help of powerful allies in and out of Congress he had pushed this important step quietly and persistently.

Although Congress cut his initial request by more than half, shearing away important aspects of the program, it is nevertheless a big step forward. The goal is community mental health centers which, in the testimony of Dr. Robert H. Felix, Director of Mental Health, can cut down care in institutions by half within 15 years. One of Kennedy's last acts on the day before he was assassinated was to send Congress budgetary requests for three of the five separate programs so they could be started as quickly as possible.

How much this meant to the late President he revealed to only a few friends and co-workers. Behind the triumphs of the Kennedy family, their worldly success, was a private sorrow. The eldest daughter, Rosemary, mentally retarded, has spent much of her life in an institution.

This gave JFK a special interest in mental rehabilitation and psychiatric care. The Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation was given large sums for the study of retardation.

The President's concern was, however, much broader than this one phase of a branch of medicine still in a formative state and in urgent need of expansion both in research and in training. He was convinced that the program he initiated would provide a broad, new base for treatment of the mentally sick. He felt gratified that at least a start had been made.

Lee Harvey Oswald, it has been disclosed, showed in early adolescence symptoms of a serious mental disorder. That was while he lived briefly in New York. Commitment for psychiatric care was recommended but never carried out. Facilities are always overcrowded, waiting lists long. Oswald and his mother resumed the wandering that took them from state to state in search of a livelihood.

Who can say that the course of history would not have been different if this sick adolescent, growing into warped and menacing manhood, had had adequate care or had if necessary been confined? And who can say how many Oswalds, harboring murderous hate and paranoid fear and suspicion, are abroad in the land?

Profiles In Science

Theoretically a vacuum is space emptied of all matter, not just of air.

It is theoretical because so far it has not been possible to empty a vessel absolutely. "Absolute vacuum" is an academic term that has not yet been realized in fact.

Torricelli, the Italian scientist famous for the invention of the barometer, devised the first known method of producing a vacuum. Solons React To Nipponese Ruling U.S. Broke War Law

Washington (UPI) — Members of the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees expressed varying degrees of reaction Sunday to a Tokyo court decision that the United States violated international law when it dropped atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki during World War II.

A Tokyo district court ruling said the bombings in 1945 were a violation of international law, which forbids indiscriminate attack against an undefended city.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said, "War knows no laws. Indiscriminate bombings were engaged in on both sides. Law and order can be maintained only as long as peace can be preserved."

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said, "I don't think the Japanese will gain anything by trying to rewrite the pages of history and they would do better to look to the future and to cooperate with the free world in maintaining permanent peace and international good will."

"I would say that the Japanese court has engaged in an effort in futility."

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., said, "The same charge could . . . be made about the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor."

He added that he believed "the charge comes too late, even if it had any validity."

A Pentagon spokesman said there would be no immediate comment on the Tokyo court ruling.

Dispute Ended

The Tokyo court ruling put an end to an 8-year-old legal dispute brought about by a group of five A-bomb victims of Hiroshima and Nagasaki who had sought compensation from the Japanese government.

The lawsuit concerning A-bomb damage claims was believed to be the first of its kind in the world.

Chief Judge Toshimasa Kozeki said in announcing the ruling, however, that no individual person is entitled to claim damages from the bombing either under international law or under existing Japanese laws.

The group sought compensation from the Japanese government because, it contended, the government had relinquished war claim rights under the San Francisco peace treaty.

It claimed that the United States dropped the bombs in violation of the 1907 Hague Convention as well as the 1958 St. Petersburg Declaration regarding the conduct of war.

Three persons were injured Sunday afternoon when three vehicles were involved in a collision at 33rd and A.

All three persons were treated at and released from Bryan Memorial Hospital.

The driver of one of the cars, Ralph W. Howland, 54, of 2228 E. told police he was going east on A when his car struck a pick-up truck. The pick-up driven by Yong Hak Shin, 32, of 331 No. 13th, was going south on 33rd, police reported.

The force of the impact sent the truck into a car driven by Janet J. Becker, 20, of 3612 Summer. She told police her car was headed north, but was stopped at a stop sign on 33rd.

Oklahoma Hotel Fire Kills Four

Lawton, Okla. (P) — Four persons died early Sunday in a fire which destroyed a small hotel here.

Firemen were hampered by gusty winds and 30-degree temperatures.

One body, identified as that of Bobby Rodriguez, 24, was found on the first floor of the two-story Baltimore Hotel in a bed. The other victims were on the second floor. Two were tentatively identified as Blackie Davenport, 60, and Rosadio Alvarez, 55. The body of the fourth victim was not identified.

The cause of the fire had not been established.

Cuban Made Threat He'd Shoot LBJ

New York (P) — A Cuban citizen, accused of threatening to shoot President Johnson, was held in lieu of $25,000 bail Sunday for illegal possession of a .22-caliber rifle.

The defendant was arraigned in court as the President was attending the funeral of former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in the city.

Omar Padilla, who claimed he made the threat in jest, was arrested Saturday by Secret Service men and detectives. He was charged under a state law which makes it a crime for an alien to own a rifle without a permit.

Judge Louis Cluff held him in lieu of $25,000 bail.

Police said Padilla, 19, a stock clerk, admitted buying the rifle last Wednesday and firing 40 rounds at a practice target in the loft building where he worked.

Police also said Padilla admitted telling friends that President John F. Kennedy, assassinated by a sniper in Dallas on Nov. 22, had been "asking for it" because of "the lack of security."

"I'm going to shoot Johnson," he quoted as having told friends.

Police and federal agents said they found spent rifle shells on the floor of the building where Padilla worked. They also found target circles drawn on a plywood backing with a copper plate backing.

2 Men Forget To Turn Off Water, Sink Theft Fails

Syracuse, N.Y. (P) — Two amateur plumbers were arrested Sunday, police reported, because they attempted to steal a kitchen sink without first turning off the water.

Mrs. Rose Mancini became alarmed when water began pouring through the ceiling of her ground floor grocery store and apartment. She called the fire department rescue squad.

Firemen and police who answered the call went to an unoccupied apartment on the second floor.

There, police said, they found Sam Gary, 35, and Robert L. Chapman, 38, both of Syracuse with pipe wrenches in hand trying to remove the sink. The men were jailed on burglary charges.

Negro Leader Says Johnson's Dixie Background A Problem

New York (P) — Negro leader James Farmer said Sunday he believes President Johnson "cares rather deeply" about civil rights but "he has the stigma of being a southerner . . . and this is a problem for him, particularly with Negroes in the north."

Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said Johnson is "fully aware of this fact." Farmer told interviewers that he discussed the matter with Johnson when they met at the White House Wednesday.

Explaining what he termed Johnson's "stigma," Farmer said:

"Very frequently when the southerner begins speaking, the Negro's mind closes up because that accent represents for him bias of the past."

But Farmer said it's possible Johnson can do more for the Negro people because he is a southerner.

" . . . A president who is a southerner can better talk with the southern senators and southern representatives;

Williams left for the island of Zanzibar to attend independence celebrations there.

Solons React To Nipponese Ruling U.S. Broke War Law

Washington (UPI) — Members of the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees expressed varying degrees of reaction Sunday to a Tokyo court decision that the United States violated international law when it dropped atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki during World War II.

A Tokyo district court ruling said the bombings in 1945 were a violation of international law, which forbids indiscriminate attack against an undefended city.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said, "War knows no laws. Indiscriminate bombings were engaged in on both sides. Law and order can be maintained only as long as peace can be preserved."

Gain Nothing

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said, "I don't think the Japanese will gain anything by trying to rewrite the pages of history and they would do better to look to the future and to cooperate with the free world in maintaining permanent peace and international good will."

"I would say that the Japanese court has engaged in an effort in futility."

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., said, "The same charge could be made about the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor."

He added that he believed "the charge comes too late, even if it had any validity."

A Pentagon spokesman said there would be no immediate comment on the Tokyo court ruling.

Thailand Premier Dies; Was Friendly To U.S.

Bangkok, Thailand (AP) — Premier Sarit Thanarat, one of the closest of U.S. friends in Southeast Asia, died Sunday. His government immediately was turned over on an interim basis to an equally staunch supporter of the West, Thanom Kittikachorn, deputy premier and defense minister.

A medical bulletin said the 55-year-old premier died of kidney and heart complications following aggravation of an old liver disorder. Only hours before his death, Sarit's American and Thai doctors reported he had seemed to be responding to treatment.

But there was a sudden change and Sarit died in his wife's arms at a Bangkok hospital late in the afternoon.

He was under the care of a team of American Army doctors, headed by Lt. Gen. Leonard Heaton, U.S. Army Surgeon-General, who flew here after Sarit's liver condition took a bad turn Nov. 28. Sarit had been under treatment at his residence since Nov. 11.

Gen. Heaton had treated Sarit previously in the United States.

The cabinet declared Monday a day of national mourning. All official functions were cancelled for three days. Flags were ordered to fly at half staff for seven days.

The nation's 36-year-old monarch, King Bhumibol Adulyadej, named Thanom acting premier until a formal royal appointment can be made on Sarit's successor. Earlier, Sarit's cabinet announced it had agreed to nominate Thanom for the job.

Shortly after the announcement of Sarit's death, Thanom issued an order for the armed forces to remain at their posts.

Told To Be Alert

Charusatien broadcast orders to national police and provincial governors to be alert against "subversives who could be active with the death of the premier."

Sarit, an Army man since the age of 20, had been in the government actively since 1947.

Treated In U.S.

Gen. Heaton had treated Sarit previously in the United States.

Cuban Made Threat He'd Shoot LBJ

New York (AP) — A Cuban citizen, accused of threatening to shoot President Johnson, was held in lieu of $25,000 bail Sunday for illegal possession of a .22-caliber rifle.

The defendant was arraigned in court as the President was attending the funeral of former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in the city.

Omar Padilla, who claimed he made the threat in jest, was arrested Saturday by Secret Service men and detectives. He was charged under a state law which makes it a crime for an alien to own a rifle without a permit.

Judge Louis Cioffi held him in lieu of $25,000 bail.

Police said Padilla, 19, a stock clerk, admitted buying the rifle last Wednesday and firing 40 rounds at a practice target in the loft building where he worked.

Police also said Padilla admitted telling friends that President John F. Kennedy, assassinated by a sniper in Dallas on Nov. 22, had been "asking for it" because of "the lack of security."

"I'm going to shoot Johnson," he quoted as having told friends.

Police and federal agents said they found spent rifle shells on the floor of the building where Padilla worked. They also found target circles drawn on a plywood board with a copper plate backing.

3-Vehicle Tangle Injures 3 People

Three persons were injured Sunday afternoon when three vehicles were involved in a collision at 33rd and A.

All three persons were treated at and released from Bryan Memorial Hospital.

The driver of one of the cars, Ralph W. Howland, 54, of 2228 E. told police he was going east on A when his car struck a pick-up truck. The pick-up driven by Yong Hak Shin, 32, of 331 No. 13th, was going south on 33rd, police reported.

The force of the impact sent the truck into a car driven by Janet J. Becker, 20, of 3612 Sumner. She told police her car was headed north, but was stopped at a stop sign on 33rd.

Oklahoma Hotel Fire Kills Four

Two were tentatively identified as Blackie Davenport, 60, and Rosadio Alvarez, 55. The body of the fourth victim was not identified.

The cause of the fire had not been established.

FCC Head's Complaint: Too Many Commercials

Washington (UPI) — Chairman E. William Henry of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) said Sunday the time has come to "stop this very dangerous trend of more and more commercialism" in broadcasting.

Henry made the statement on the eve of FCC hearings on proposed regulation of radio and television commercials.

While Henry was interviewed, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said the number of radio and television commercials need to be regulated.

"Almost weird"

"The mad, almost weird scramble of television and radio stations to push as many commercials as possible at the audience, has become a national scandal," said Celler, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Henry said the seven members of the FCC are still debating how to limit broadcasting commercials, "but we're agreed that there is a need to do something."

He said the disagreement centered on how broad a regulation governing the number and length of broadcasting commercials should be.

Henry said a 1960 FCC programming policy gave the commission authority to limit commercials. He said any expansion of that ruling would have to suit the needs of both large and small broadcasters.

It's "Vague"

Asked to spell out what might be done as a result of the hearings, Henry said he couldn't say because "it's so vague it can't be put down on paper."

On other topics, Henry said the FCC would not give any special consideration to the operation of a radio and television chain owned by President and Mrs. Johnson. He noted that the FCC has recently approved two UHF television applications for Austin, where the Johnson family owns the single television station. The President's family ownership of the chain has been placed under the control of trustees, to prevent any possible conflict of interest.

Henry also noted that the FCC was studying records to determine if an over-all investigation of telephone company rates is needed. However, he said current telephone rates and their profits were under a continuing study.

Industry Commended

Both Celler and Henry commended the broadcasting industry for coverage of the assassination of President Kennedy.

But Celler said the broadcasting "air is so saturated with such commercials that the public is surfeited and suffocated."

Papal Safety Pondered

... CAIRO VIEWS TRIP WITH ALARM

Vatican City (AP) — Sour Cairo reaction to the Holy Land pilgrimage next month by Pope Paul VI was reported Sunday to have Vatican security officers re-examining protective measures for the pontiff.

Vatican circles are assuming that Israel and Jordan authorities also were intensifying their security planning. The Roman Catholic ruler plans to visit shrines in both those countries during his pilgrimage Jan. 4-6.

Concern about security arrangements was said to have been heightened by Cairo press reaction. Papers there say his pilgrimage will be interpreted as Vatican recognition of Israel and one, Al Akhbar, wrote that it feared "a Zionist attempt on the Pope's life." It asked:

"Guarantee?"

"Who would guarantee for us that the Zionists would not kill the Pope during his visit to the Holy Lands, whether in Jordan or Israel, and accuse the Arabs instead?"

This comment sent shivers down the backs of Vatican gendarmes officers, most of whom are plainclothes detectives recruited from Italian police forces. One Vatican source said such published comment might give fanatics ideas.

The Vatican gendarmerie is understood to have decided to send an advance mission to the Holy Land to go over every inch of the Pope's anticipated itinerary.

Vatican officials also maintained silence on the Holy See's attitude toward a proposal by Patriarch Athenagoras of Istanbul for a church summit meeting. The Orthodox patriarch suggested Friday that Orthodox and Protestant leaders meet with the Pope in Jerusalem.

Rumors continued to circulate about other papal travel plans.

Vatican sources take it for granted that the Holy Land pilgrimage — the first trip outside Italy by a Pope in 150 years and the first ever by plane — will be only the beginning of papal international travels.

Archbishop John Heenan of England said last week he would not be surprised if the Pope went to Britain. French asked Popes to visit Lourdes. Pope Paul has invitations to attend the International Eucharistic Congress in Bombay, India, next November, to visit the New York World's Fair of 1964, and to tour Brazil and other South American countries. The invitations came from Catholics in the various countries. Pope John XXIII once predicted that his successor would fly to the Philippines.

Pope Presented Olive Branch Of Gethsemane

Rome (UPI) — Pope Paul VI, literally mobbed by wildly enthusiastic Italians, drove into downtown Rome Sunday and received several olive branches from the Garden of Gethsemane which he is expected to visit on his historic Holy Land pilgrimage next month.

The Pope, riding in an open car despite the very cold day, went to the spacious Piazza de Spagna in the heart of the Eternal City to pray before a statue of the Madonna of the Immaculate Conception, whose feast day was celebrated Sunday.

At one point the crowd, the largest that veteran observers could recall at the annual celebration, broke through police cordons and several persons rushed up and grabbed at the Pope's hand. He smiled broadly.

Prays At Column

After the Pope had prayed before the 19th Century statue of Mary, which stands atop a high column, Jordanian Ambassador to Italy Edmond P. A. Roch stepped up and presented him with the olive branches from Gethsemane.

The olive branches arrived in Rome Saturday from the Jordanian Jerusalem garden where Jesus was taken into captivity before His Crucifixion.

The Pope spent about 10 minutes in the piazza before the statue which was decked with flowers placed by Romans through the day.

Benediction

Then, smiling and waving his arms in a sign of benediction, the Pope rode away amid cheers from the crowd of "Viva il Papa" and the singing of the hymn "Christus Vincit."

He went to the 4th Century Church of St. Mary Major, largest of the Roman churches dedicated to the Virgin, and attended a Marian liturgical service officiated by Carlo Cardinal Confalonieri of the Roman Curia.

Is There A Santa Claus? U.S. Has Official Answer

Washington (AP)—In the news from Washington: Santa Claus policy: "Is there a Santa Claus?" Confronted by this perennial policy question, U.S. officials have been provided an answer of sorts in the form of a policy guide from the U.S. Information Service.

The USIA directive, published in the December issue of the Foreign Service Journal, a sort of trade paper for American diplomats, declares U.S. policy is firm and uncompromising on this matter. Then it lays down the policy line like this:

"1. The U.S. believes there is a Santa Claus. Coverage and commentary should draw on the Feb. 28, 1863, speech of President Martin Van Buren before the Maniac Falls (South Dakota) chamber of commerce.

Fuzz Said It

"2. The U.S. does not believe there is a Santa Claus. Coverage and commentary should draw on statements by Withrop L. Fuzz, third secretary of embassy, in his Nov. 1, 1877, news conference at Mbamba Bay, Tanganyika.

"3. The foregoing two points (A) are by no means mutually exclusive but, on the contrary, wholly compatible, (B) together constitute a position which (1) has overwhelming popular approval in the U.S., and (2) enjoys bipartisan political support...."

The policy guide cautions: —Don't start any story "Yes, Virginia."

The directive adds that its position has been rejected by all bureaus in the State Department, by many in USIA, by the International Monetary Fund, and by the Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the Board of Parole.

On other topics, Henry said the FCC would not give any special consideration to the operation of a radio and television chain owned by President and Mrs. Johnson. He noted that the FCC has recently approved two UHF television applications for Austin, where the Johnson family owns the single television station. The President's family ownership of the chain has been placed under the control of trustees, to prevent any possible conflict of interest.

Henry also noted that the FCC was studying records to determine if an over-all investigation of telephone company rates is needed. However, he said current telephone rates and their profits were under a continuing study.

Industry Commended

Both Celler and Henry commended the broadcasting industry for coverage of the assassination of President Kennedy.

But Celler said the broadcasting "air is so saturated with such commercials that the public is suffocated and suffocated."

FIREMAN BATTLES ROARING BLAZE

A roaring grass fire near West O and the U.S. 6 cutoff slowed Sunday night traffic to a near standstill. Fed by high winds, flames leaped nearly 20 feet into the air. Asst. Fire Chief Curtis Kadlick said he could barely see across O St. during the fire. He said it was possibly started by a carelessly discarded cigaret. Kadlick said he saw several pheasants and rabbits flee the flames which did no property damage. (Star Photo)

Is There A Santa Claus? U.S. Has Official Answer

Washington (AP)—In the news from Washington: Santa Claus policy: "Is there a Santa Claus?" Confronted by this perennial policy question, U.S. officials have been provided an answer of sorts in the form of a policy guide from the U.S. Information Service.

The USIA directive, published in the December issue of the Foreign Service Journal, a sort of trade paper for American diplomats, declares U.S. policy is firm and uncompromising on this matter. Then it lays down the policy line like this:

"1. The U.S. believes there is a Santa Claus. Coverage and commentary should draw on the Feb. 28, 1838, speech of President Martin Van Buren before the Maniac Falls (South Dakota) chamber of commerce.

Fuzz Said It

"2. The U.S. does not believe there is a Santa Claus. Coverage and commentary should draw on statements by Withrop L. Fuzz, third secretary of embassy, in his Nov. 1, 1877, news conference at Mbamba Bay, Tanganyika.

"3. The foregoing two points (A) are by no means mutually exclusive but, on the contrary, wholly compatible. (B) together constitute a position which (1) has overwhelming popular approval in the U.S., and (2) enjoys bipartisan political support."

The policy guide cautions: "Don't start any story 'Yes, Virginia.'"

The directive adds that its position has been rejected by all bureaus in the State Department, by many in USIA, by the International Monetary Fund, and by the Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the Board of Parole.

Papal Safety Pondered

... CAIRO VIEWS TRIP WITH ALARM

Vatican City (AP)—Sour Cairo reaction to the Holy Land pilgrimage next month by Pope Paul VI was reported Sunday to have Vatican security officers re-examining protective measures for the pontiff.

Vatican circles are assuming that Israel and Jordan authorities also were intensifying their security planning. The Roman Catholic ruler plans to visit shrines in both those countries during his pilgrimage Jan. 4-6.

Concern about security arrangements was said to have been heightened by Cairo press reaction. Papers there say his pilgrimage will be interpreted as Vatican recognition of Israel and one, Al Akhbar, wrote that it feared "a Zionist attempt on the Pope's life." It asked:

"Who would guarantee for us that the Zionists would not kill the Pope during his visit to the Holy Lands, whether in Jordan or Israel, and accuse the Arabs instead?"

This comment sent shivers down the backs of Vatican gendarmerie officers, most of whom are plainclothes detectives recruited from Italian police forces. One Vatican source said such published comment might give fanatics ideas.

The Vatican gendarmerie is understood to have decided to send an advance mission to the Holy Land to go over every inch of the Pope's anticipated itinerary.

Vatican officials also maintained silence on the Holy See's attitude toward a proposal by Patriarch Athenagoras of Istanbul for a church summit meeting. The Orthodox patriarch suggested Friday that Orthodox and Protestant leaders meet with the Pope in Jerusalem.

Rumors continued to circulate about other papal travel plans.

Vatican sources take it for granted that the Holy Land pilgrimage — the first trip outside Italy by a Pope in 150 years and the first ever by plane — will be only the beginning of papal international travels.

Archbishop John Heenan of England said last week he would not be surprised if the Pope went to Britain. French asked Pops to visit Lourdes. Pope Paul has invitations to attend the International Eucharistic Congress in Bombay, India, next November, to visit the New York Worlds Fair of 1964, and to tour Brazil and other South American countries. The invitations came from Catholics in the various countries. Pope John XXIII once predicted that his successor would fly to the Philippines.

Pope Presented Olive Branch Of Gethsemane

Rome (UPI)—Pope Paul VI, literally mobbed by wildly enthusiastic Italians, drove into downtown Rome Sunday and received several olive branches from the Garden of Gethsemane which he is expected to visit on his historic Holy Land pilgrimage next month.

The Pope, riding in an open car despite the very cold day, went to the spacious Piazza de Spagna in the heart of the Eternal City to pray before a statue of the Madonna of the Immaculate Conception, whose feast day was celebrated Sunday.

At one point the crowd, the largest that veteran observers could recall at the annual celebration, broke through police cordons and several persons rushed up and grabbed at the Pope's hand. He smiled broadly.

Prays At Column

After the Pope had prayed before the 19th Century statue of Mary, which stands atop a high column, Jordanian Ambassador to Italy Edmond P. A. Roch stepped up and presented him with the olive branches from Gethsemane.

The olive branches arrived in Rome Saturday from the Jordanian Jerusalem garden where Jesus was taken into captivity before His Crucifixion.

The Pope spent about 10 minutes in the piazza before the statue which was decked with flowers placed by Romans through the day.

Benediction

Then, smiling and waving his arms in a sign of benediction, the Pope rode away amid cheers from the crowd of "Viva il Papa" and the singing of the hymn "Christus Vincit."

He went to the 4th Century Church of St. Mary Major, largest of the Roman churches dedicated to the Virgin, and attended a Marian liturgical service officiated by Carlo Cardinal Confalonieri of the Roman Curia.

Buy Argentine Beef

Rome (AP)—Argentine beef was introduced to Rome last month as a price-control measure — selling at two-thirds the price of Italian beef. Romans loved it, 49 butcher shops now sell it, and the government says a supply is assured at least until next April.

All-Out Political Brawl Shaping Up In Louisiana

... DE LESSEPS MORRISON LEADS PACK

New Orleans (AP)—An all-out political brawl shaped up Sunday with DeLesseps S. Morrison and John J. McKeithen scrambling for Democratic nomination as governor.

The runoff election will be held Jan. 11. Since Reconstruction, nomination has meant easy victory in the general election, to be held March 3.

Of the 10 men who crowded the field in Saturday's first primary, Morrison and McKeithen were the survivors.

Morrison, 51, is a former New Orleans mayor and Kennedy administration diplomat. McKeithen was backed by one faction of the politically potent Long family.

Moderates

Both were regarded as political moderates, on the basis of past performance, but Louisiana campaigns are not noted for moderation. The runoff shaped up as no exception.

McKeithen planned to hit hard on the issue of states' rights and "federal intervention." He called this a major issue in the race.

McKeithen said, "I will not say I will support (President) Johnson. I want to see what his program will be before I make up my mind."

Aside from the states' rights issue, there were similarities between Morrison and McKeithen.

Organized labor made no endorsement but both men had its tacit approval. Both favor segregation, but hard-core racists are not happy with them. And both were severely critical of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' administration.

Wheeling, Dealing

In this brief pause, the wheeling and dealing begins, with Morrison and McKeithen each seeking support from all-so-rans in the first primary.

"I have left the door open," said Morrison. "There is no earthly reason why they could not join us and go on to victory in January."

There were three strong contenders behind McKeithen—U.S. Rep. Gillis W. Long, former Gov. Robert F. Kennon and arch-segregationist Shelby M. Jackson.

MORRISON POINTS ... 'It's up to you.'

Negro Vote Headquarters Bombed

Dawson, Ga. (AP)—A house used by Negroes active in a voter registration drive was struck by bullets and damaged by an explosion early Sunday.

Don Harris of Americus, a member of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee, said 50 or more shots were fired into the home of Mrs. Carolyn Daniels, a Negro, shortly after midnight.

Harris said Mrs. Daniels was treated at a Dawson hospital for a cut on her foot, inflicted by a bullet or flying glass. There were no other persons in the house at the time.

Harris said the Daniels home was the scene of a shooting Sept. 5, 1962, when three field secretaries of the SNCC were slightly wounded.

Police Chief W. B. Cherry said he investigated the latest incident and that the FBI also started an inquiry.

Harris said the SNCC has been carrying on an intensive voter registrative drive among the 7,000 Negroes in Terrell County. Two weeks ago, he said, 33 Negroes applied for registration and 30 passed tests.

Dawson is in southwest Georgia, about 20 miles from Albany. Three Negro churches burned in the area last September and Negro leaders said the buildings were burned as retaliation against Negro voter registration efforts.

ECM Nations Seek Common Farm Policies

Brussels, Belgium (UPI)—European Common Market agricultural ministers met Monday in an attempt to forge a united farm policy that can set the stage for worldwide tariff cuts proposed by the late President Kennedy.

A common agricultural policy has been under negotiation for nearly two years. Progress slowed for almost a year while Britain negotiated market membership—vetoed by France.

The talks will be highly technical, centering on regulations for beef, veal, dairy produce and rice.

Agreement has almost been reached on beef, veal and rice regulations, but there is little agreement so far on dairy products.

Finance for farmers after national subsidies end also will be discussed.

Johnson Invited To Address U.S. Legion In Dallas

Miami (UPI)—The American Legion disclosed Sunday that it has invited President Johnson to speak at its September convention in Dallas, where President Kennedy was assassinated.

Daniel F. Foley, the Legion's national commander, said Johnson's appearance would be "good for Dallas and good for Texas."

Foley, 41, of Wabasha, Minn., said he has not received an answer from the White House yet.

The national commander pledged the Legion's full support to President Johnson.

Oswald Letters To Pro-Fidel Group In FBI's Possession

New York (AP)—The FBI has obtained a series of letters written by the late Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy, to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, two New York newspapers reported Sunday.

The Times said Vincent Theodore Lee, 36, of New York, chairman of the committee which is sympathetic to Premier Fidel Castro, released copies of six letters from Oswald. The originals, Lee said, were turned over to the FBI.

Lee said they showed that Oswald had set himself up as its New Orleans representative without sanction of the national office, according to The Times.

The Journal-American, in a copyrighted story, said the FBI had found letters from Lee in Oswald's effects, but would not discuss them.

Couldn't Recall Him

When Oswald's alleged connection with the committee was first reported, soon after the assassination, Lee said he could not recall the man and that the committee had no New Orleans branch.

After inquiries from the FBI, Lee said he searched committee files Thursday and found the Oswald letters.

The Times said Lee stated he did not recall answering any of Oswald's letters, but that his standard reply to such inquiries was a "cordial" letter, advising the would-be representative to get a post office box and "not go around shooting off your mouth where you work or at home so that you lose your job."

Oswald's first letter, reportedly written late last April from Dallas, reported he had passed out "Fair Play for Cuba" pamphlets wearing a home-made placard reading "Hands Off Cuba. Viva Fidel." He asked for more pamphlets. Lee said he didn't know where Oswald got his original pamphlets.

"I have left the door open," said Morrison. "There is no earthly reason why they could not join us and go on to victory in January."

There were three strong contenders behind McKeithen—U.S. Rep. Willis W. Long, former Gov. Robert F. Kennon and arch-segregationist Shelby M. Jackson.

With 2,200 of the 2,219 precincts counted, the unofficial count was: Morrison 295,270; McKeithen 154,819; Long 136,801; Kennon 124,836; Jackson 102,401; Claude Kirkpatrick 28,608; State Rep. Louis J. Michot Jr. 37,708.

Insufficient Totals Others in the race drew insignificant vote totals.

Gillis was backed by his cousin, U.S. Sen. Russell B. Long, in a campaign that split the Long family, a power in state politics since Huey P. Long controlled Louisiana in the 1930s.

McKeithen is a former legislative leader for the late Gov. Earl Long, the senator's uncle.

Oswald's first letter, reportedly written late last April from Dallas, reported he had passed out "Fair Play for Cuba" pamphlets wearing a home-made placard reading "Hands Off Cuba. Viva Fidel." He asked for more pamphlets. Lee said he didn't know where Oswald got his original pamphlets.

The second letter, dated May 26, reported Oswald had moved to New Orleans and asked for formal membership in the committee. He said he was thinking about forming a committee branch and was considering renting a $30-a-month office at his own expense.

"Jumped the Gun" The third letter, the first one addressed "Dear Mr. Lee," said he had "jumped the gun on the charter business," and had printed 2,000 circulars and a membership blank of his own devising said he would charge $1 a month dues, but offered to forward $5 to the national committee for every member who paid five months' dues in any year.

In a fourth letter, on Aug. 1, Oswald said he had rented an office, but it was closed three days later on the landlord's claim that it had to be remodeled. He said he continued working out of a post office box and conducted street demonstrations.

One street demonstration, Oswald wrote, had resulted in an attack by some anti-Castro Cuban exiles and to his being "officially cautioned by the police." There was no elaboration.

"This incident robbed me of what support I had, leaving me alone," Oswald wrote.

The fifth letter, dated Aug. 12, reported he had been fined $10 for the "incident," but that he thought the press and television coverage would be good for the committee.

Interviewed In the sixth letter, dated Aug. 17, Oswald reported he had been interviewed on television, resulting in a flood of calls and invitations to debate.

"You can, I think, be happy with the developing situation here in New Orleans," Oswald wrote.

Lee said there were also three postal notices in the files, one dated Nov. 1 which shifted Oswald's address from New Orleans back to Dallas.

Lee expressed shock at the "dastardly" assassination of President Kennedy, and also deplored the subsequent murder of Oswald.

"Whether Oswald was guilty or innocent," he said, "we certainly are not responsible for his completely independent action."

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

COUNTRY CLUB TERRACE

For awhile we thought that winter had passed us by — but the first indication that we were wrong appeared this weekend when, much to the younger generation's delight, came the occasional snow flurries.

And, of course, this is a very special time of year for the children who look forward to a white Christmas, and a chance to use their shined up sleds and ice skates.

But whether the snow comes or not — suburban residents always have a merry time — especially when it is holiday season.

Recent holiday guests at the Country Club Terrace home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bucholz and their children Margaret and Mark Jr., were Mrs. Bucholz' brother and sister-in-law and family from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bowman and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Bowman of Owatonna, Minn.

The two Bowman families were in Lincoln until last Sunday when they returned to their homes.

A birthday celebrant in Country Club Terrace and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Hudson was Miss Nancy Hudson who celebrated her second anniversary last Thursday.

Her guests for dinner and ice cream and cake were her uncle and aunt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hudson and Bruce, Lynn,

Anniversary Celebration

In celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Derrill M. Trook will hold open house at their home, 1448 Meadow Dr., on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 15. All friends are asked to attend between the hours of 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock without further invitation.

Gail and Rex, and her grandmother, Mrs. Lila Boswell.

Country Club Terrace residents who did some traveling during the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. John Mulgrue and their children, Colleen, Tommy, Patty and Danny. Their destination was Osceola where they were the guests of Mrs. Mulgrue's brother and sister-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Donal Weiseman.

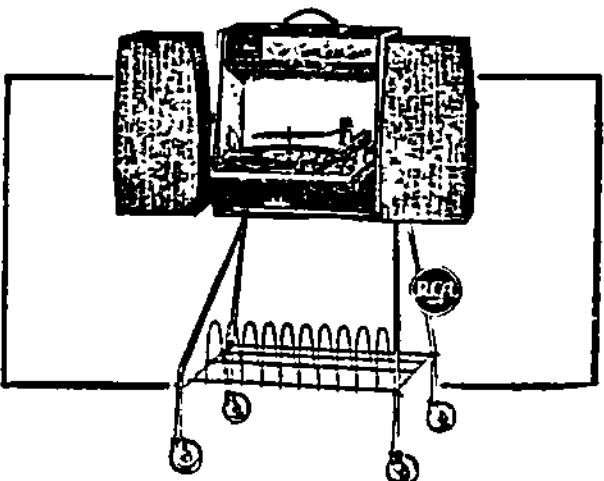

Motoring to Omaha recently were Country Club residents, Mr. and Mrs. David Breslow and their children, Leroy, Marilyn and John.

The Breslow family were the guests of Mrs. Breslow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Yaffe and her brother and sister-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Irv Yaffe.

We have also learned that the male members of the Breslow family will be traveling to Miami during the Christmas holiday to help cheer the University of Nebraska football team in the Orange Bowl.

The bidding:

Opening lead — three of hearts.

There is something amusing, as well as tragic, when a side contracts for a grand slam missing the ace of trump, but that this can happen even in the best circles is shown by the accompanying hand played between Italy and the United States in the world championship of 1961.

The American North-South pair got to a grand slam on the bidding shown. The reader can judge for himself whether North or South was more at fault, but in our view the jump to six diamonds by North constituted an exaggeration of his values.

Having jumped to two spades already and thus expressed interest in a slam, North should have done no more than bid five diamonds, or possibly five clubs. South, on the actual sequence, can hardly be blamed for bidding seven diamonds, since all he really needed for a grand slam were three aces and the values for a jump-shift.

Of course, either player could have used Blackwood and learned that the opponents had an ace — but neither player did.

The grand slam went down one — 100 points — when declarer led the ten of diamonds from dummy and finessed after East followed low.

When the Italians had the North-South cards, they bid:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1	Pass	2
Pass	3	Pass	3
Pass	4	Pass	4
Pass	5	Pass	5
Pass	6	Pass	6

This was certainly a sound contract, but the declarer, not having been doubled by East, played the diamonds normally and went down one. East played low when the ten was led from dummy and declarer went up with the king, West showing out. South now had to lose two trump tricks and went down one — 50 points.

So Italy gained 50 points on the deal.

Dear Abby

Zero In Diplomacy

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Well, my husband opened his big mouth again, and now half the neighborhood isn't speaking to us. The school is nine blocks from here. Our kids walk. A neighbor couldn't get her car started, so she ran over here all excited (my husband was eating his breakfast) and said if HE didn't drive a carload of kids to school, they'd all be late. Then my husband gave her a lecture on "how it would do them all good to walk, and the school was only nine blocks away, and that she and the other mothers in our neighborhood were spoiling the kids rotten by chauffeuring them a distance that could be walked in 15 minutes, blah, blah, blah." Well, that's not what she came over for, so I told him to shut his mouth and I drove the kids to school in our pick-up truck. My husband said I should have taken his side. Who was wrong?

LIKES IT PEACEFUL.
DEAR LIKES: Your husband. Your neighbor didn't want advice, she wanted a ride for the kids. Although your husband's ideas were sound, he batted zero in diplomacy.

Why Grow Old?

Make-Up For Older Women

Josephine Lowman

In New York City the other day I stopped by Eddie Senz's Salon to talk with that famous artist about make-up, the better to help you with yours.

Eddie said, "Make-up should be for a woman what an amplifier is for a singer, simply the means of improving appearance or voice." I had asked him what he considers to be the most usual mistakes middle-aged women make in their use of make-up.

He continued, "It is fatal if a woman sees herself as no one else sees her. Every age has its own beauty! Why should a woman try to look like 20 when she is 50?"

I said, I agree with you entirely, but come on, Mr. Senz, give me more specifics. What are some of the tricks?

Then Eddie talked about eyebrows. It is important to emphasize and give a little lift to the middle arch of the brows from middle age on. It is also important to remove any downward straying hairs at the end of the brows. These can give one a drooping appearance even when one does not feel droopy.

Diamonds may be a girl's best friend, but these pearls of real know-how I am bringing you may turn out to be your best friend. I asked Mr. Senz about eye shadow for middle-aged women. I sometimes think that it makes them look older. He thinks that you should use it, but very carefully.

He said, "Perhaps the safest rule is to choose a color which matches the eye." I am sure that he did not mean that if you have dark brown eyes you should use a dark brown eye shadow.

Dear Abby

Zero In Diplomacy

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Well, my husband opened his big mouth again, and now half the neighborhood isn't speaking to us. The school is nine blocks from here. Our kids walk. A neighbor couldn't get her car started, so she ran over here all excited (my husband was eating his breakfast) and said if HE didn't drive a carload of kids to school, they'd all be late. Then my husband gave her a lecture on "how it would do them all good to walk, and the school was only nine blocks away, and that she and the other mothers in our neighborhood were spoiling the kids rotten by chauffeuring them a distance that could be walked in 15 minutes, blah, blah, blah." Well, that's not what she came over for, so I told him to shut his mouth and I drove the kids to school in our pick-up truck. My husband said I should have taken his side. Who was wrong?

LIKES IT PEACEFUL
DEAR ABBY: Your husband. Your neighbor didn't want advice, she wanted a ride for the kids. Although your husband's ideas were sound, he batted zero in diplomacy.

Why Grow Old?

Make-Up For Older Women

Josephine Lowman

In New York City the other day I stopped by Eddie Senz's Salon to talk with that famous artist about make-up, the better to help you with yours.

Eddie said, "Make-up should be for a woman what an amplifier is for a singer, simply the means of improving appearance or voice." I had asked him what he considers to be the most usual mistakes middle-aged women make in their use of make-up.

He continued, "It is fatal if a woman sees herself as no one else sees her. Every age has its own beauty! Why should a woman try to look like 20 when she is 50?"

I said, I agree with you entirely, but come on, Mr. Senz, give me more specifics. What are some of the tricks?

Then Eddie talked about eyebrows. It is important to emphasize and give a little lift to the middle arch of the brows from middle age on. It is also important to remove any downward straying hairs at the end of the brows. These can give one a drooping appearance even when one does not feel droopy.

Diamonds may be a girl's best friend, but these pearls of real know-how I am bringing you may turn out to be your best friend. I asked Mr. Senz about eye shadow for middle-aged women. I sometimes think that it makes them look older. He thinks that you should use it, but very carefully.

He said, "Perhaps the safest rule is to choose a color which matches the eye."

I am sure that he did not mean that if you have dark brown eyes you should use a dark brown eye shadow.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine just moved into an old house. She and her husband remodeled it a little bit on the inside and now she is inviting all her friends to come to a "housewarming." I think she is wrong. Aren't housewarming parties only for people who move into NEW homes?

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: No. The house is "NEW" to her.

DEAR ABBY: A woman I work with asked me to her club as a guest. A man I had never seen before was also somebody's guest at the club. He introduced himself to me and asked me my name. I told him. No one that I know had ever seen him before, and they didn't know anything about him. He asked if he could take me home. I refused. My friend said I was crazy. Was I?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: No. If he's interested, he'll find you. And if he's worthwhile, he'll respect you for your cautiousness and will gladly provide the character references you insist upon.

Khrushchev Begins New Drive On Farm Problem

Moscow (A) — Premier Khrushchev rallies his Communist lieutenants here Monday for another crack at easing this country's agricultural headache.

The Soviet leader's latest sure cure is a massive input of fertilizer, plus costly irrigation projects.

The party's economic planning experts are expected to unfold details of their blueprint for the diversion of massive investment resources into chemistry. The new investment plan for the years 1964-65 was approved by the government last week and the Party Central Committee is expected to affix its stamp of approval and listen to pep talks on the importance of the new drive.

The investment plan will be made public to the rest of the world at the session of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) beginning Dec. 16.

Caps 5-Year Drive

For Khrushchev, the opening of the new drive to modernize and expand chemical production caps five years of wrestling with economic and political obstacles.

He originally called for a concentration of investments and building resources in chemistry in 1958. Primarily, he was then interested in the potentialities of turning out new consumer and construction materials made from the new synthetic materials and fibers.

But nothing came of the initiative. Old conservatives in the planning organs, the men who allocate this country's investment funds, continued to follow the industrial development lines laid down in Stalin's time.

Khrushchev returned from time to time to the idea but never seemed to be able to rally much enthusiasm for it. He finally exploded in exasperation at a meeting held in November 1962, blasting top planning brains for sabotaging his plan. He charged they willfully shortchanged the chemical industry in favor of ever-increasing investments for steel and heavy industry.

Pushed For Meeting

He shook up the top planning organs and revamped party and government organizations in an effort to get the economy rolling in the direction he prescribed. He had begun pushing for a special plenary meeting of the Central Committee to discuss the chemical industry as far back as March 1962. The long delay in convening the session has been interpreted by some westerners as evidence of a sharp behind-the-scenes battle in the top echelons of the party leadership over: (A) the size of the new appropriations for chemicals, and (B) where to raise the money.

This year's agricultural catastrophe is believed to have put new pressure behind Khrushchev's drive for a big investment effort in chemistry.

The vast virgin lands of Kazakhstan, plowed up on Khrushchev's initiative over the protests of many farm experts, this year yielded their poorest harvest. Indications are that most of the played out arid steppelands, hit by bad weather this year, produced barely enough seed for next year's sowing.

The sad wheat harvest forced the Russians to buy nearly a billion dollars worth of wheat in Canada and other western markets.

The disaster appeared to give Khrushchev the clinching argument for bigger chemical investments. Soviet propaganda organs have endlessly sounded his new formula for "guaranteed grain harvests" — chemical fertilizers and irrigation.

Khrushchev has mapped an increase in chemical fertilizer production from the current 20 million tons to 35 million tons in 1965. He has advised western businessmen that Russia is in the market for complete chemical fertilizer plants and wants to buy large quantities of western equipment for the industry. The premier confidently predicts he can finance this with surplus from his industrial machine.

Western experts are skeptical. Some express belief that funds will have to be shaved off appropriations from heavy industry, defense or housing construction to finance the buildup of the chemical industry. Khrushchev, however, insists defense expenditures will not be affected.

Winter has come to Japan. Tokyo is chill as a samurai sword blade—overcast sky and a bitter wind blows over the plain where the Shoguns built the fortress they called Edo.

A good fourth of the people on the streets are wearing the white surgeon's mask over nose and mouth, so beloved by germ-conscious Japanese. (It's as normal a sight as a breast pocket handkerchief at home.)

The town rattles and bangs. Rivets and steamshovels all day and night. Tokyo is building for the 1964 Olympics. And for sheer confusion, no people beat the Japanese.

Ever seen an ant hill suddenly disturbed? That's Tokyo today.

Between dinners, naturally, you are on snacks.

And so in gastronomical confusion, we came down the air currents over Tokyo Bay and landed at Haneda Airport.

The Okura is Tokyo's newest hotel. A masterpiece of electronics. Room messages are flashed on a bedside screen. Doors open magically at your approach.

A number of things I never did learn how to turn off—the under-the-bed night light and the electronic music.

Japan is going Western at a galloping pace. Elevator doors snap at you like a shark bite.

After hours night spots are warned of approaching police by walkie-talkie. And a remote control radio signal from the lookout puts the illegal orchestra behind screens and turns on the legal juke box.

What does remain is the Japanese massage. If you have been flying 15 hours, there is nothing finer.

You can get a massage day or night. About $1.50.

The massage girl was built like a truck driver. She kicked off her shoes immediately. For they have a massage here where they walk up and down your spine.

"First you take bass-u," she said. "Then massage."

She took a shaker and sprayed me with perfumed powder. Then she started running the 440 on the back. At times it felt like she was doing high hurdles and she came down with a thump.

And so, to electronic music and 160 pounds of massage girl walking up and down my back, to bed.

And when I woke up, the room boy had brought coffee. Though being one day ahead and seven hours behind, I really couldn't tell you whether this is breakfast, dinner or midnight snack.

Distributed by The Chronicle Features

"And now, sir, we will serve the Japanese snacks," she said. The lady wore a kimono flowered in pink and the butterfly bow obi at her back was solid gold.

That is the way Japan Air Lines dresses the stewardess. It is some 15 hours from San Francisco to Tokyo—one stop at Honolulu if you are flying the long-range fan jet. You eat your way across every air mile. Across seven hours of time zones. Across the International Date Line and into the next day.

This is a hazard of international travel. By your breakfast time, you are on Japanese pickles, vinegared rice rolls, teriyaki steak, Suntory Scotch, English gin, French champagne and Japanese sake.

The lady issued me a short Japanese coat with Japanese characters on the back. (What did it say—"Eat at Joe's"? Who knows?)

She put me into red slippers. She gave me a fan to fan myself.

She showed me how to use an oxygen mask if I needed oxygen. And urged us not to inflate our life vests inside the airplane.

They then began to inflate the passengers with seven-course dinners.

New Delhi (A) — Prime Minister Nehru will inaugurate a 10-day United Nations conference here Tuesday on India's most worrying problem — population control.

A KISS FOR THE CHAMP

National Golden Gloves Champ To Fight Here

... EXHIBITION BOUT FOR HARLEY COOPER

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Lincoln boxing fans can get a look at a national Golden Gloves champion Friday night in the Capital City's first smoker of the season, scheduled for the fairgrounds.

Harley Cooper, the fighting airman from Offutt Air Force Base, will meet Jim Manning, a Peru State athlete, in an exhibition bout to top the Golden Gloves smoker card.

Cooper swept over all competition a year ago in moving to the national Golden Gloves heavyweight title in Chicago after easily winning the Midwest crown in Omaha.

The classy veteran, who punches with speed and power, has moved down to the light-heavyweight division this year and Omaha grocers have seen a heavy run on steaks and milk as that city's light-heavyweights hurry to move up into the heavyweight class.

Cooper ran into trouble a year ago in finding heavyweights willing to get into the ring with him and even though he is below the 175-pound mark this season, fighters still shy away from the hard-punching airman.

The exhibition for the Lincoln Fairgrounds show was set up Sunday when Manning agreed to go against Cooper. Manning was a Grand Island district champion two years ago and was a member of the Peru State football team the past season.

Manning has been described by veteran Golden Gloves observers as "a well-conditioned fighter who doesn't fear anyone."

The Cooper-Manning exhibition will be the feature of a card that will consist of 12 to 15 bouts with at least four defending Southeast District Golden Gloves champions in action.

Defending champions who will appear Friday night are Jim Blake, Hank Bornemeier, Eddie Phillips and Bill Edwards. Blake and Bornemeier are fighting out of the Larry Emery stable while Phillips is being handled this year by Gene Acosta and Edwards is training at Fairbury.

Fighters from the Sloan and Jackson Boxing Clubs of Omaha and from Offutt will help make up the card. Friday night's fights will be the first action for the Lincoln Golden Gloves program since it was taken over by the Associated Master Barbers three weeks ago.

Bears Close In On Western Flag With Win Over 49ers

Chicago (AP)—Willie Galimore's 51-yard touchdown run on the first play from scrimmage spurred the Chicago Bears to a 27-7 victory over San Francisco Sunday and moved them within one game of the National Football League's Western Division crown.

A victory or even a tie against Detroit next Sunday would give the Bears their first divisional title since 1956. However, a defeat at the hands of Detroit, coupled with a Green Bay triumph over San Francisco Saturday, would send the Packers into the championship game.

Galimore's opening jaunt and a 21-yard touchdown run by Joe Marconi gave the Bears a 14-0 lead in the first quarter and set up the possibility of a rout.

Center Woes

But Bear center Mike Pyle had a troubled afternoon. Four bad snapbacks, two on punts and two on field goal attempts, made the Bears turn the ball over to San Francisco on downs. But only once did the 49ers capitalize.

That was in the second quarter when San Francisco took over on the Bear 26 after a bad snap. J. D. Smith

Gilchrist Nets 5 TDs, 243 Yards On Ground

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP)—Cookie Gilchrist riddled the New York Jets line Sunday for 243 yards and scored five touchdowns for American Football League records as the Buffalo Bills crushed the Jets, 45-14.

Gilchrist, the AFL's most valuable player last year and unable to break away consistently this season until this game, set three league and four team records and equalled two league marks.

His 243 yards surpassed the 216 by Houston's Billy Cannon in a game against New York. Abner Haynes, playing for Dallas in 1961 against Oakland, had scored four touchdowns rushing.

QB Hit

Buffalo virtually crippled New York's attack on the first play after the opening kickoff. Sid Youngelman chased quarterback Dick Wood from his 21 to the four, where Wood went down and stretched the muscles in his left leg.

The signal-calling duties were turned over to Gale Hall, who tossed a 23-yard fourth period touchdown pass to Don Maynard. Hall could engineer only 38 yards rushing for the Jets.

Gilchrist scored his first touchdown from the four after three minutes of play. His others came on a pair of one-yard smashes, and runs of four and 19 yards.

Steelers' Win Sets Up Polo Grounds Decider

Dallas (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers scored with two minutes left Sunday and beat the Dallas Cowboys, 24-19, to set up a winner-take-all game next week with the New York Giants for the Eastern Division title of the National Football League.

Theron Sapp scooted 24 yards to a touchdown for the Steelers to pull out the victory.

The decision gave the Steelers a 7-3-3 record on the year. The Giants defeated Washington for a 10-3 record. Cleveland and St. Louis are tied for second with 9-4, and eliminated.

The regular season game at New York next Sunday will decide the winner. If the Giants win or tie they will get the title. If the Steelers win they will take it all.

Looked Grim

Into the final minutes of the game here it looked like it was all over for the Steelers, whose three ties this season were the most for one time in the NFL since 1938.

The Cowboys led on the strength of 53 and 46-yard field goals by Sam Baker and a couple of touchdown runs by quarterback Don Meredith.

The Steelers were down, 19-17, and appeared to have lost when Don Bishop of Dallas blocked a field goal attempt by Lou Michaels from the Dallas 47.

But the Cowboys couldn't move the ball and had to punt.

Winning Drive

The Steelers started on their 20 and soon had a fourth down on their 16. Ed Brown, in punt formation, faked a kick and threw a pass to Red Mack for 42 yards.

The Steelers went from there for the winning touchdown.

Unitas' Passing Sends Colts To 41-10 Victory

Baltimore (AP)—Quarterback John Unitas hurled a d a m p football at a rate approaching the best in his eight-year career and the Baltimore Colts slaughtered the Minnesota Vikings 41-10 Sunday.

The 30-year-old Unitas failed to connect only four times on 21 passes, three of them going for touchdowns, in driving Baltimore to a 34-10 lead at the end of the third quarter of the National Football League game.

Unitas turned the last quarter over to rookie Gary Cuzzo after coming within eight completions of his peak total of 25. The 34 yards gained by Unitas were only 53 shy of his best single game mark, and pushed him to an all-time personal season high of 3,158 yards with one game to go.

It was the highest scoring output of the season for the Colts, who got on the winning side of the record with 7-6 for the first time in Don Shula's debut as head coach. The loss lowered Minnesota's slate to 4-8-1.

Rookie end John Mackey carried two Unitas passes for touchdowns, 61 and 27 yards. Both times, Mackey bowled over three would-be tacklers on his way to the goal.

Mackey caught a total of five Unitas passes while veteran end Raymond Berry gathered in eight, one for a 24-yard touchdown.

San Diego All Thumbs; Oakland Surges, 41-27

... 17-POINT LEAD WIPED OUT

Oakland, Calif. (AP) — Oakland overcame a 17-point San Diego lead in the fourth period Sunday to whip the Chargers, 41-27, and keep them from clinching the American Football League's Western Division title.

Two fumbles, a bad punt, a personal foul penalty, and an interception return each gave the Raiders possession of the ball in San Diego territory in the final 15 minutes. Each time they scored.

Climax
A 41-yard touchdown pass from Cotton Davidson to Art Powell with the score tied, 27-27, and 5:33 to play climaxed the comeback victory. Davidson, on the bench in the first half, passed for two touchdowns and scored one in the surge.

The consistent long passing of Tobin Rote, who threw for three touchdowns, helped the Chargers to a 20-10 halftime lead and a 27-10 edge after three quarters. Then the roof fell in.

Bob Jackson fumbled at the Charger 40 after gaining 25 yards on a swing pass. Oakland recovered. Clem Daniels sprinted to the four on the next play, and after a loss Davidson hit Powell on a 10-yard scoring pass.

Two plays after the kick-off, Paul Lowe fumbled and

Joe Krakoski recovered for the Raiders at the 23. Mike Mercer's 30-yard field goal followed.

A five-yard punt after a bad center snap gave Oakland a chance from the Charger 43. Six plays later Davidson went up the middle for the touchdown from the nine.

San Diego could do nothing. After Bob Gibson returned the Chargers' punt to his 46, the personal foul moved the ball to San Diego's 39.

Davidson threw the game-winning to Powell three plays later.

Claridge, Callahan Rate Big 8 Academic Berths

Norman, Okla. (UPI) — Dennis Claridge and end Richard Callahan of Nebraska's Big Eight football champions won berths on the 1963 Big Eight All-Academic eleven announced by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

Claridge, a standout on the gridiron with the Cornhuskers, also was outstanding in the classroom, wading through geology, chemistry and physics on his way to a straight B average in dentistry.

Three other quarterbacks were a close second to Claridge. They were Glenn Baxter, Oklahoma State (3.1 in marketing); Mike Miller, Oklahoma State (3.0 in business); and Larry Switzer, Iowa State (3.2 in chemical engineering).

Another pre-dental major who landed a spot on the team was Newt Burton, Oklahoma's All Big-Eight guard, who logged a 3.07 while passing mathematics, air science, chemistry and economics. Ronald Lurie, crack Missouri guard, had a 3.25 average in banking and finance.

With at least a B average required, no centers or fullbacks were nominated. David Volles, Oklahoma linebacker, who clicked off a 3.67 in pre-medicine, was switched to the pivot position which he had played some.

Ronald Oelschlager of Kansas was switched to fullback. He made the dean's honor roll by racing through courses in German, physics, zoology and the English novel.

The 1963 All-Big-Eight All-Academic team:
Ends—Richard Callahan, Nebraska (business) and Rick McCurdy, Oklahoma (pre-medicine).
Tackles—David Gill, Missouri (mathematics) and Joe Provenzano, Kansas State (physics education).

Chiefs End Loss Skein By Downing Broncos

Kansas City (AP) — Kansas City's defensive team scored one touchdown and set up three others with blocked punts and interceptions as the Chiefs blasted Denver, 52-21, Sunday for their first American Football League victory in two months.

Len Dawson fired three touchdown passes for Kansas City, two to flanker Frank Jackson, and Jackson got a third touchdown on a 22-yard reverse.

The first of Kansas City's three blocked punts was by Dave Grayson in the first period. Duane Wood picked up the ball at the 18 and ran for a touchdown, giving the Chiefs a 14-0 lead.

Sherrill Headrick, Kansas City linebacker, blocked two punts in the third quarter, and the Chiefs moved 27 and 11 yards for two touchdowns. Bobby Hunt, Chiefs' safety, stopped one Denver scoring drive with an interception and set up a touchdown by running 65 yards to the Broncos' one with another stolen pass. The game was played in freezing weather with light snow flurries and wind gusts up to 62 miles an hour. Gene Mingo of Denver kicked a 44-yard field goal into the teeth of the gale and a 50-yarder with the wind.

The victory, first for the Lions since Nov. 3, destroyed the Browns' title hopes. Cleveland had entered the game tied with New York for the Eastern Conference lead.

The triumph was the ninth for Detroit in 10 regular season games with Cleveland, including three title games and a playoff bowl meeting.

Passed To Barr
Detroit quarterback Earl Morrall passed to Terry Barr for a 75-yard scoring play the first time the Lions got the ball, and flipped a 29-yarder to Gail Cogdill to start the second half surge.

Danny Lewis and Nick Pietrosante scored for the Lions on short runs and defensive end Darris McCord pounced on a Frank Ryan fumble in the end zone for the other Detroit touchdown. Wayne Walker's 23-yard field goal and five extra points accounted for the other Detroit points.

All of the Browns' scoring was in the second quarter.

Lou Groza kicked a field goal and Ryan passed to Gary Collins on a 49-yard play to cap a long drive.

The Lions held Jimmy Brown, the NFL's leading ground gainer, to 61 yards.

Little Trouble
Detroit's secondary also had little trouble handling Cleveland's passing game, and Browns' Coach Blanton Collier used No. 2 quarterback Jim Ninowski for most of the second half.

RALLY IN SECOND PERIOD LIFTS BOSTON BY OILERS

Houston (AP) — The Boston Patriots, backing Babe Parilli and Tom Yewcic with a rugged pass defense, got three touchdowns in a weird second period Sunday for an 46-28 victory over the Houston Oilers and moved close to the Eastern Division championship of the American Football League.

George Blanda completed 12 consecutive passes in pacing Houston to a 14-10 lead early in the first half, but the Boston defense then threw Blanda and understudy Jackie Lee for losses totaling 100 yards while trying to pass.

Blanda engineered a 76-yard go-ahead drive to open the second period, but the Oilers then lost the ball three times on fumbles and twice on pass interceptions before the half.

San Diego All Thumbs; Oakland Surges, 41-27

... 17-POINT LEAD WIPED OUT

Oakland, Calif. (P) — Oakland overcame a 17-point San Diego lead in the fourth period Sunday to whip the Chargers, 41-27, and keep them from clinching the American Football League's Western Division title.

Two fumbles, a bad punt, a personal foul penalty, and an interception return each gave the Raiders possession of the ball in San Diego territory in the final 15 minutes. Each time they scored.

Climax

A 41-yard touchdown pass from Cotton Davidson to Art Powell with the score tied, 27-27, and 5:33 to play climaxed the comeback victory. Davidson, on the bench in the first half, passed for two touchdowns and scored one in the surge.

The consistent long passing of Tobin Rote, who threw for three touchdowns, helped the Chargers to a 20-10 halftime lead and a 27-10 edge after three quarters. Then the roof fell in.

Bob Jackson fumbled at the Charger 40 after gaining 25 yards on a swing pass. Oakland recovered, Clem Daniels sprinted to the four on the next play, and after a loss Davidson hit Powell on a 10-yard scoring pass.

Two plays after the kickoff, Paul Lowe fumbled and

Joe Krakoski recovered for the Raiders at the 23. Mike Mercer's 30-yard field goal followed.

A five-yard punt after a bad center snap gave Oakland a chance from the Charger 43. Six plays later Davidson went up the middle for the touchdown from the nine.

San Diego could do nothing. After Bob Gibson returned the Chargers' punt to his 46, the personal foul moved the ball to San Diego's 39.

Davidson threw the game-winning to Powell three plays later.

Claridge, Callahan Rate Big 8 Academic Berths

Norman, Okla. (UPI) — Dennis Claridge and end Richard Callahan of Nebraska's Big Eight football champions won berths on the 1963 Big Eight All-Academic eleven announced by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

Claridge, a standout on the gridiron with the Cornhuskers, also was outstanding in the classroom, wading through geology, chemistry and physics on his way to a straight B average in dentistry.

Three other quarterbacks were a close second to Claridge. They were Glenn Baxter, Oklahoma State (3.1 in marketing); Mike Miller, Oklahoma State (3.0 in business), and Larry Switzer, Iowa State (3.2 in chemical engineering).

Another pre-dental major who landed a spot on the team was Newt Burton, Oklahoma's All Big-Eight guard, who logged a 3.07 while passing mathematics, air science, chemistry and economics. Ronald Lurie, crack Missouri guard, had a 3.25 average in banking and finance.

With at least a B average required, no centers or fullbacks were nominated. David Volles, Oklahoma linebacker, who clicked off a 3.67 in pre-medicine, was switched to the pivot position which he had played some.

Ronald Oelschlager of Kansas was switched to fullback. He made the dean's honor roll by racing through courses in German, physics, zoology and the English novel.

The 1963 All Big-Eight All-Academic team:

Ends—Richard Callahan, Nebraska (business) and Rick McCurdy, Oklahoma (pre-medicine).
Tackles—David Gill, Missouri (mathematics) and Joe Provenzano, Kansas State (physical education).
Guards—Ronald Lurie, Missouri (banking and finance) and Newt Burton, Oklahoma (pre-dental).
Center—David Volles, Oklahoma (pre-medicine).
Halfbacks—Dave Hoover, Iowa State (industrial administration) and Billy Parent, Oklahoma State (natural science).
Fullback—Ronald Oelschlager, Kansas (zoology).
Quarterback—Dennis Claridge, Nebraska (dentistry).

Chiefs End Loss Skein By Downing Broncos

Kansas City (P) — Kansas City's defensive team scored one touchdown and set up three others with blocked punts and interceptions as the Chiefs blasted Denver, 52-21, Sunday for their first American Football League victory in two months.

Len Dawson fired three touchdown passes for Kansas City, two to flanker Frank Jackson, and Jackson got a third touchdown on a 22-yard reverse.

The first of Kansas City's three blocked punts was by Dave Grayson in the first period. Duane Wood picked up the ball at the 18 and ran for a touchdown, giving the Chiefs a 14-0 lead.

Sherrill Headrick, Kansas City linebacker, blocked two punts in the third quarter, and the Chiefs moved 27 and 11 yards for two touchdowns. Bobby Hunt, Chiefs' safety, stopped one Denver scoring drive with an interception and set up a touchdown by running 65 yards to the Broncos' one with another stolen pass.

The game was played in freezing weather with light snow flurries and wind gusts up to 62 miles an hour. Gene Mingo of Denver kicked a 44-yard field goal into the teeth of the gale and a 50-yarder with the wind.

'Fish, Mice Among Mankind's Kin'

Washington (UPI) — Scientists Sunday reported genetic evidence of man's relationship to mice and even fish.

The evidence was supplied by a new method of tracing evolution which, it was said, "May well prove to be one of the truly significant scientific breakthroughs of the year."

The "breakthrough" was described in the annual report of Dr. Caryl P. Haskins, president of the privately endowed Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Until now evolution has been evidenced primarily by fossils found in rocks.

Sensitive Method

This year two Carnegie scientists, Drs. E. T. Bolton and B. J. McCarthy, invented a simple and sensitive method of comparing compatible, or homologous, portions of the genetic material of one living creature with that of another.

Now, the report said, "it may be possible to trace evolution through the interrelationships thus established."

The genetic material is deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA). It transmits the inheritance of all living creatures, from single-celled plants and animals to man.

Bolton and McCarthy developed a method for measuring how much DNA from one living form would combine with, or was homologous to, the DNA from another.

They have found "significant interrelationships" among several kinds of bacteria and among such animals as the mouse, rat, hamster, and guinea pig. For example, 75% of the mouse DNA proved compatible with rat DNA.

25% With Mice

Preliminary experiments also showed "significant homology, or relationship," between DNA from human tissues and DNA from animals. The report said 25% of human DNA combined with the DNA of mice or calves.

"There was even some interaction between human DNA and salmon DNA — about five per cent," the report said.

These results, the scientists said, imply "the existence of common genetic material that has been conserved during the course of vertebrate evolution." Some genetic relationship, they said, extends "from man to fishes."

It's Like His Wife Says: 'Charlie's A Real Riot'

... STUCK IN A TURNSTILE

New York (AP) — For years Charlie Traeger and his big bass fiddle have been making their way through turnstiles in Manhattan's subway system.

Early Sunday morning, en route home from an engagement with the Myer Davis society orchestra at a Metropolitan Opera party, the 37-year-old fiddler ran into trouble.

He and his big bass fiddle got stuck for 90 minutes in a full-length, coin-operated turnstile and the account of his release had the makings of a Broadway comedy.

Not A Second Thought

"I decided to take the subway," he said. "I knew there was no attendant down there and I'd have to go through the turnstile, but I've been going through revolving doors with the fiddle all my life, so I didn't give it a second thought."

No sooner did Charlie get into the turnstile and start the bars revolving, than it became stuck.

"I couldn't move forward and I couldn't move back," he said. "Hell, I couldn't even breathe."

Soon a young college lad and his date appeared on the scene.

"The kid gave me a stick of gum," Charlie said. "And then went off to find help."

The boy returned with a policeman and a tug-of-war with the stubborn turnstile began. Finally the officer left for reinforcements, calling over his shoulder to Charlie: "Don't go away."

Ten minutes later the officer returned.

"He had another cop with him and three guys in overalls, and the whole bunch began trying to get me out with screwdrivers, but no dice," Charlie said.

Someone called his wife at home and explained that he might be delayed a bit. "My husband's a real riot, isn't he?" she said.

Meant Business

Finally more rescue workers arrived, one totting a large tool kit.

"I could see right away that the guy with the tool kit meant business," Charlie said. "He began removing bars from the turnstile like they were made of spaghetti."

Before long, Charlie and his big bass fiddle were eased out of the turnstile.

"I'm afraid my wife is right," Charlie confessed. "I'm just getting too fat."

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Formosa Agrarian Reform Described As Successful

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Economic law is meaningless unless it is in harmony with human nature.

The Communist program of "progress" through confiscation has been self-defeating, especially in farm production.

In all too many countries, demagogues have created national frustration through alleged "reforms," which developed stresses and strains and a sense of inherent injustice.

Rukeyser

Under Chiang Kai Shek in Taiwan (Formosa), there has been a different approach to land reform. In a book on the subject, Chen Cheng, one-time governor of Hupei Province and later governor of Taiwan, relates the formula used.

As an alternative to confiscation, the government put a ceiling on rent paid by tenant farmers amounting to 37% of the annual yield of the main crop. At first, the rent reduction to the landlord was moderate, and was in some instances soon offset by increased productivity, especially in connection with the program to increase rice output by 20%.

In addition about 21% of the agricultural land in the province was public land. The Formosa government set an example in offering such land at reduced rentals, and this eventually created a basis in 1951 for the sale of such land to incumbent tenants.

Rent Reduction

By 1953 the rent reduction program and sale of public lands gave a yardstick for making tenant owners on a basis that would release capital of landlords for industrial and commercial development.

In describing the program, Cheng states that the subjoined five principles were followed:

(1) We decided to carry out the program gradually and by peaceful means. Landlords were permitted to retain a reasonable maximum of tenanted land. Amounts over and above this limit were compulsorily sold to the government at fairly fixed prices for resale to tenants. Next, the government extended loans to farmers to enable them to buy the lands retained by the landlord.

(2) Both the compulsory purchase of land and its resale were effected through the government without direct contact between landlord and tenant so as to prevent abuses or disputes.

(3) Care was taken to see that the buyer was the original tiller, that the land was the same he had been tilling, and that the way of operating the farm was unchanged.

(4) For protection of other enterprises, limits were set to farmlands owned by educational, social and economic undertakings and industrial and commercial plants, and such lands were exempted from compulsory purchase and sale.

(5) Protection was given to owner-cultivators by preventing the transfer or lease of farmlands under the land-to-the-tiller program before the price had been paid in full. A production loan fund was provided to encourage the farmer-purchaser to operate the land on a cooperative basis with improved techniques.

Preliminary Program

Cheng ascribed the results to a carefully tested preliminary program. As to this, he said: "First, a firm foundation had been laid by the operation of the rent reduction program. Second, the prior implementation of the general land ownership classification program had resulted in clear and accurate data on land categories, distribution of rights, actual condition of use, and identity and number of resident and non-resident landlords. Third, the compensation paid landlords by the government was fair and reasonable. Issuance of land

INSIDERS' Bias

Of course, allowance should be made for the bias of the insiders and proponents. Obviously, governmental compulsion was merged with standards of fairness. This seems harsh to free enterprise, but the change must be related to the previous Chinese record of famines, insufficient production, and meager living standards. Even under laissez faire, theorists recognized that the final sanction for an economic system lies in social utility. Perhaps the Taiwan experiment may serve as a pilot study for the eventual rehabilitation of the Chinese mainland.

On a larger scale, in West Germany, elsewhere in free Europe, and in Japan, postwar experience has demonstrated the lifting power of a program based on prudent monetary principles and the philosophy of a free market.

West Germany has been reversing Marxian and inflationary trends. Under Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's slogan "Property for Every Man" hitherto government owned enterprises have been converted to private ownership. This was conspicuous in the Volkswagen and electric power operation.

Part of the plan is to give priorities to single men with incomes of not more than $2,000 and married men with incomes of not more than $4,000 to help them invest in shares of automobile and mining and smelting companies which had previously been wholly owned by government.

The rediscovery in the postwar world of the social utility of rewards and incentives has been a development of utmost importance. It challenges the destructive view that Communism is the inevitable "wave of the future."

Ohio Boy Shot In Heart Survives Miraculously

Cleveland (AP) — Eight-year-old Harold Adams of Madison, shot through the heart Saturday, was alive and recovering Sunday night. Doctors at Huron Road Hospital called the boy's recovery a near miracle.

The boy was shot by a stray bullet, believed to be a .22-caliber, while playing in his front yard. The slug is lodged near his spine. Dr. John Storer said that Harold is expected to recover with no ill effects. He added that the bullet may or may not be removed.

The boy was given a chance to live by quick action of a woman who spotted him lying nearly hidden in the snow, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by his father that restored breathing, and the fact that Harold has a large pericardium.

The pericardium, the sac that encloses the heart, was able to hold the blood that otherwise would have been lost, hospital attendants said.

Edward I. Sjo, chief Lake County deputy sheriff, said the shot may have been fired from a wooded area across the road, or possibly from a nearby field. Deputies questioned several hunters in the vicinity and confiscated rifles found in three nearby homes.

Harold first was examined at Northeastern Ohio General Osteopathic Hospital in North Madison. Transferred to Huron Road Hospital, he immediately went into surgery. About a quart of blood was

Farm Bureau Membership Growth Could Change Federal Ag Policies

By OVID A. MARTIN
Chicago (AP)—The American Farm Bureau Federation opened its annual convention Sunday with issuance of a membership report which its leaders hope will lead politicians — including President Johnson — to take notice.

Roger Fleming, secretary-treasurer, announced that the big farm organization has pushed its membership to the record high of 1,628,295 farm families. He said the gain was 20,700 over 1962.

The significance of the increase in membership, Fleming said, is that it was accomplished in a year in which the farm bureau waged an unrelenting attack on farm production and price control policies of the late President Kennedy.

The increase also came at a time, he said, when the number of farms continued to decline. Farm Bureaus in 33 states and Puerto Rico recorded gains over last year.

Hope For Shift
With a presidential and congressional elections coming up next year, many of the state Farm Bureau presidents, said they hoped President Johnson would take cues from the Farm Bureau gains and shift federal farm policies in the direction of greater freedom for farmers — the prime goal of the Farm Bureau.

But regardless of what the politicians do, the Farm Bureau's five-day convention was expected to write a 1964 platform which would call upon next year's session of Congress to reduce the federal role in determining the production and price patterns of agriculture.

Too, it was expected to give a unanimous vote of confidence to Charles B. Shuman, Illinois farmer, by re-electing him president for two more years. Shuman stands out as the leading farm critic of government agriculture programs.

Outline Campaign
Shuman will outline recommendations for an anti-farm program campaign in 1964 in a talk before Monday's session. Officials estimated that at least 5,000 members will attend from the 49 states and Puerto Rico in which organizations exist.

The convention may run into a few difficulties in reaching full agreement on resolutions. There appeared to be

Washington (AP)—Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Nebr., said he was "thoroughly convinced we should not cut taxes and increase the national debt."

Curtis' comment was in response to a letter from Gov. Frank Morrison asking Nebraska congressional delegation members for support of the civil rights bill, the tax cut bill and a "realistic budget."

"I cannot regard any other position as acting with responsibility," Curtis said. "The term 'realistic budget' is just words. Everyone regards his own budget as realistic. I voted for all previous civil rights bills since 1957, and I will probably be voting for this one when it reaches its final form. I look with favor on having some civil rights legislation now."

some division of views as to whether the organization should join some livestock groups in calling for restrictions on beef imports.

Cattlemen claim sharp increases in imports have been a major factor in depressing cattle prices. For years, the Farm Bureau has been an advocate of free trade.

The convention also could run into a little difficulty in agreeing on a future cotton program. Some leaders favor lower cotton price supports than now prevail, while others

The convention is expected to take a strong stand against increased use of compensatory payments to farmers from the federal treasury.

Battle Creek Celebrates Its 'Outstanding' Status

By GENE BUDIG
Outstate Nebraska Battle Creek — One quickly learns why this town was named Nebraska's Outstanding Community.

The people work together. Sunday, for example, they staged a giant smorgasbord. It drew nearly 1,000 persons, while the population signs show only 630.

"The societies of our five churches and every organization in town and the surrounding area cooperated," explained Mrs. Francis Zimmerman, general chairman.

Key To Honor
She said such cooperation led to Battle Creek's impressive honor in the recent Community Betterment Contest.

"We have a lot to celebrate," Mrs. Zimmerman added.

Held at the high school auditorium, the feed featured some 42 items.

An added attraction was the Battle Creek Men's Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Aage Petersen. A Swedish song composed by Mrs. Petersen was introduced.

Members of the chorus included Herb Wackter, James Gardel, Walter Zohner, Elmer Corbit, Arvid Eyl, Aage Petersen, Francis Zimmerman, Melvin Rodekohl, Elmer Unkel and Fred Neihold.

Murals Displayed
A background for the singers was a Swedish mural painted by Mrs. Harold Chase. Other murals painted by Mrs. Elwyn Church were displayed.

These four were arraigned in Manhattan Night Court and Combs received summonses returnable Dec. 19 in Queens Criminal Court.

On a normal Sunday, the four men could probably have wandered with impunity in the dense marshes surrounding the airport. But their weapons brought swift attention from police guarding the President Sunday.

Four Students Die In Highway Crash
New London, Iowa (U)—Four students from Parsons College in nearby Fairfield died Sunday when their car hit a truck on U.S. 34 about one mile east of this southeast Iowa community.

Highway Patrolman Leonard Wiele identified the dead, all 20 years old, as the driver of the car, David Taylor Ross, Washington, D.C.; Richard Harvard Downing Jr., Pleasant Hill, Pa.; James William Davis Jr., Chicago, and Phillip Francis Gossen, Fairfax Station, Va.

He said all died of head injuries suffered when the car hit the Christmas tree-laden truck.

The truck driver James Belcher, 32, of Littleton, Colo., was uninjured.

Wiele said Belcher had stopped the truck to check its tires when the 2:30 a.m. crash occurred.

Leigh Attendance High
Leigh — More than 250 farmers attended the fourth annual Colfax County Feeders and Breeders Association tour.

Among the farms visited were those of Paul Weimann, Walter Weimann and John Faltys.

Munday Appointed

Omaha (UPI)—Dale Munday has accepted the position of associate general counsel with Nebraska Blue Cross-Blue Shield, the organization said.

Munday is a native of Fremont.

Japan is the largest importer of United States hides and skins — $27,000,000 worth last year.

More than ten thousand gallons of perfume products are consumed each day in the United States.

The world's three chief imports of coffee are the United States, France, and West Germany.

The pigeon is the only bird that drinks by suction.

West Berlin's convention centers can accommodate more than 60,000 people.

The sandfish builds its home of pebbles.

To enter all the scheduled routes of all the world's communist world airlines, a passenger would have to fly 8 hours a day for two years, using jet airplanes.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
